University Plans Huge Plant Here

By HERMAN HANCOCK

Plans for erection of a $2,500,000 10-story combination library and classroom structure to house the Atlanta Division of the University of Georgia were unfolded Tuesday night by Dr. George M. Sparks, Director.

Dr. Sparks announced the new building program as a supplement to disclosure of plans to settle the weeks-long controversy between the City and University authorities over use of a lot at the southwest intersection of Courtland and Gilmer Streets.

University officials have insisted that the City-owned tract, on which Atlanta proposed to construct a $300,000 combination fire headquarters and signal system, was essential to the development of the center, and Tuesday Sparks and others announced the University has almost completed negotiations through which the City would move its proposed structure to the southeast corner of the intersection leaving the southwest area for development by the University.

Only a few remaining details remain to be worked out before the proposal is submitted to Mayor Hartsfield and City Council. Under the plan, the University will buy the southeast corner and give it to Atlanta in exchange for the strategic southwest tract which the City now owns.

Dr. Sparks said the University's plan to erect a $440,000 library on the tract will be expanded so that the University will build a 10-story structure for class rooms and administration atop the library. A $1,000,000 program already has been planned. These plans will be expanded rapidly, Dr. Sparks predicted.

Funds for the development will be obtained by matching available funds from the Federal Government. Dr. Sparks was enthusiastic about the development, and said Federal matching funds may be secured from several sources, two of which are the Meade bill and the more recent measure offered by Sen. George D. Aiken, of Vermont, which provides $250,000,000 for educational advancement.

The expansion will be done gradually, Dr. Sparks said, but eventually all University activities will be centered in the new structures and the entire building at 24 Ivy St., N. E., will be abandoned and will be leased to private business to provide an income for the Atlanta University Center. At the present time, about one-fourth of the Ivy Street structure produces $62,000 annually in rentals.

"We are happy that it now appears we will be able to get the site we need so much for the developemnt of the University Center," Dr. Sparks said. "While we cannot do everything we want to do there immediately, we are planning the new huge development. We also are planning for a student body of 10,000 within the next few years. With funds available to us, we can match available Federal funds and proceed to develop a great University Center on the site. In addition, abandonment of the Ivy Street property will give us a good income if it is leased to private industry."

Police Search Ends

NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 23—(UP). Mrs. Edward W. Laird told Newark police Tuesday they could call off their 11-state alarm for her missing husband. She said she had found him doing penance for drunken driving—in the Newark jail.

EMERGENCY—Curtis Wiley, of Gainesville, is treated by a Grady Hospital interne for a broken leg Tuesday after a freak accident that tossed him from motorcycle he was riding to hood of a car. County Patrolmen H. W. Smith and C. W. Austin, who investigated, quoted Wiley as saying he thought he would fly through the windshield. The accident took place near the intersection of Clairmont Road and the Buford Highway, when Wiley collided with a car driven by R. J. Mesenheimer, of Winter Chapel Road. Bystanders aided the interne as he set Wiley's leg in a traction splint.

Floridan's 'Avoid Georgia' Appeal Fails To Win AAA's Indorsement

The American Automobile Association is not going to advise motorists to avoid Georgia, as one of the AAA's representatives in St. Petersburg, Fla., has urged the Association to do.

National publicity recently was given the St. Petersburg AAA Manager's charge that tourists are being ill-treated by speed traps in Georgia counties.

The Florida AAA representative was rebuked Tuesday in a Constitution editorial which deplored unfair treatment of tourists, but declared the entire State is not to blame. The editorial suggested that routing tourists away from Georgia by the AAA would be just as unfair as if all Georgians boycotted St. Petersburg and withdrew their membership from the AAA.

In Washington the AAA headquarters declared Tuesday:

"The American Automobile Association as a National Organization is not recommending that affiliated clubs route motorists around Georgia. We are gratified that the Governor of Georgia, Chambers of Commerce and Automobile Clubs are taking steps to improve enforcement methods and treatment of out-of-state motorists."

The AAA headquarters did point an accusing finger at both Florida and Georgia, however, with these remarks:

"The fact is that the American Automobile Association receives more complaints concerning enforcement methods in both Florida and Georgia than in any other section of the nation.

"Southeastern States, with a tremendous stake in tourist trade, should as a matter of good business if for no other reason, take every practicable step to assure that out-of-State motorists are given equitable and courteous treatment. We will advise all affiliated clubs that Georgia authorities are taking steps to improve enforcement conditions."

The AAA message was addressed to C. C. Straw, Secretary of the Georgia Motor Club, who relayed it to The Constitution.

Carol, Choral Groups Offer Holiday Music

Midnight Christmas carol services will be presented by a group of Atlanta churches tonight, while other choral groups will offer holiday musical programs throughout the day Thursday.

One of the season's most impressive programs of music will begin at 11 p. m. today at Peachtree Christian Church. This service features the traditional procession of 100 candle-bearers and the full choirs which will sing antiphonally.

Dr. Robert W. Burns, Pastor, will preside at the altar, assisted by the Rev. W. S. Van Arsadle, Jr., and Dr. William V. Garner.

The annual Christmas Eve program of Carols of the Nations will be sung by the choir of Druid Hills Presbyterian Church beginning at 11 p. m.

Christmas choral music will highlight the Holy Communion service at All Saints Episcopal Church at 11 p. m. The congregation will sing the carol, "Silent Night," and the choir will offer "A Lovely Rose Is Blooming," and other songs.

A sermon by the Rev. Theo G. Ahrendt, Pastor, will feature the Christmas Eve worship at Grace Evangelical Lutheran Church at 8 Evangelical Lutheran Church at 8 p. m.

Festival Midnight Mass of Christmas will be observed at 11:15 p. m. today at the Liberal Catholic Church of St. Michael the Archangel.

Holy Communion will be observed at the Holy Trinity Episcopal Church at 11:30 p. m. today and again at 10:30 a. m. Thursday.

A carol service will be presented at 11 p. m. today at the Episcopal Church of Our Savior. The traditional Midnight High Mass will begin at 11:30 p. m.

Saint-Saens' Christmas oratorio will be sung by the choir of the Cathedral of St. Philip beginning at 11 p. m. today. Dean John B. Walthour, Rector of the Cathedral of St. Philip will celebrate Holy Communion at 11:30 p. m.

Dr. Roimundo de Ovies will celebrate Holy Communion at 10:30 Thursday.

The St. Cecelia Mass by Gounod will highlight services at St. Luke's Episcopal Church at 11 p. m. today. The Rev. J. Milton Richardson, Rector, will deliver the sermon. Holy Communion will be observed at 11 a. m. Thursday.

Midnight Mass will be said beginning at 12 midnight at the Cathedral of Christ the King. The Rev. Fr. Joseph Cassidy will officiate.

ALLIED WITH CHRISTMAS

Spirit of 'Opportunity' Donations Has Deep Meaning for Atlantans

Atlantans will join the peoples of the troubled world in observing Thursday, the birthday of the Prince of Peace.

They will take time from the excitement of Santa's visit to the children, the merriment of gala parties and family reunions and the festivity of Yule dinners around overladen tables to think, too, of the deeper meaning of the day.

Since the Wise Men brought gold, frankincense and myrrh to the Child in the manger 2,000 years ago, the spirit of giving has been closely allied with Christmas.

For more than 25 years, The Constitution's Opportunity Fund has given Atlantans the opportunity to give at Christmas—not just to those who will return their gifts, but to the needy.

Many "Opportunities" have been described in daily stories.

There is Edward R., a 16-year-old boy, who can't earn quite enough to support his widowed mother and small sisters and brother.

There is Miss G., a lonely spinster near 70, who recently was released from a mental hospital and is in need of financial aid until she can readjust herself and return to work.

There is Mr. S., doomed to die with a brain tumor, whose frail wife and five small children are cramped in bleak surroundings and suffering from malnutrition.

There is Marianne, a young unmarried mother-to-be, who is in desperate need of financial assistance, if she is to rebuild the "new life" she wants.

There are many more which have not been told.

Each of these stories is a true case of actual need in Fulton or DeKalb County. Your contribution to the Opportunity Fund at Christmastime will help these unfortunate families all through the year.

One dollar donation was mailed from an invalid in Fancy Gap, Va., Miss Emma Quisinberry, who wrote: "I am sending this little gift with a prayer in my heart that others who can give may do likewise . . . The Lord told us to love our neighbors."

Address YOUR contribution today to H. H. Trotti, Treasurer, Opportunity Fund, care The Constitution, Atlanta.

Aderhold Post To Balkcom

Warden A. C. Aderhold plans to retire in February as warden of Tattnall State Prison, and he will be succeeded by Robert P. Balkcom, former deputy warden who is returning to the State Prison as deputy warden in January.

This was learned exclusively by The Constitution Tuesday night.

A retired Federal warden, Aderhold agreed to help the State revamp its State Prison in February, 1944.

At a recent meeting, the State Board of Corrections elected Balkcom as Deputy Warden. Balkcom at present is making a tour of the Southern States, studying administration methods used in other State Prisons. He will assume his duties as Deputy Warden in January and will be promoted to Warden when Aderhold retires.

Flames Sweep Five Buildings At Myrtle Beach

MYRTLE BEACH, S. C., Dec. 23 (UP)—Fire of undetermined origin swept through two restaurants, a small cafe, an amusement palace and a residence on the Atlantic Boardwalk here Tuesday night doing damage estimated at between $75,000 and $125,000.

The Myrtle Beach Fire Department, the Myrtle Beach Army Air Field fire fighting unit and the Conway, S. C., Fire Department joined forces in battling the blaze for more than two hours.

No one was hurt.

Pleasant Yule Slated for City

Continued mild temperatures and rainless—if somewhat cloudy—skies will combine to make Christmas, 1947, pleasant for Atlantans, the Weather Bureau said.

The official forecast calls for slightly cooler temperatures today, followed by cloudy skies and little change in temperature Thursday."

The mercury will range between a high of 56 and a low of 42 today. Thursday's high is expected to be 48 degrees. Tuesday's readings were: High, 61; low, 35.

Thread Firm Sets New Home

The American Thread Company, largest manufacturer of industrial sewing threads in the United States, Tuesday announced it was having a new home built at West Peachtree and Eleventh Streets for its Atlanta office.

A residence at 1049 West Peachtree St., N. W., is being demolished to make way for the Company's 25,000 square foot new sales and service branch. Completion is expected in May.

The lease, for an unnamed period of years at an aggregate rental of $255,000, was handled by John O. Chiles, Vice President of Adams-Cates, Realtors. The owner and lessor is R. A. C. Realty Company, a Massell enterprise. Details of the transaction were handled for American Thread by E. A. Johnson, Atlanta Branch Manager.

A complete stock of sewing threads, crochet cotton, knitting wools, stamped goods and Star Brand instruction books will be carried, as well as the threads needed to service the Southeast's growing industrial demands, Johnson said.

American Thread has five Southern mills located at Tallapoosa, Dalton, Bristol, N. C., Troutman, N. C., and Clover, S. C., and five Northern mills in New England.

In 1948, the American Thread Company will celebrate its fiftieth year in business. Plans for the Golden Jubilee include a promotional and advertising campaign for radio, magazine and newspapers. Exhibits also will be held in several of the largest state fairs and women's expositions in the United States during the year.

Gas Company Control Now In Georgia

By WELLINGTON WRIGHT.

Control of the Atlanta Gas Light Company, long held in New York City, has come back to Georgia.

People in 90 Georgia cities and towns already have bought 38 percent of the common stock of this Company, more than enough to assure control, and the distribution of the stock is still unfinished.

Rock G. Taber, President of the Atlanta Gas Light Company, the oldest chartered corporation in Georgia, says he expects that within a year Georgia stockholders will own more than 50 percent of this stock. Usually, in the modern corporation set-up, ownership of 15 or 20 percent of Company's stock is sufficient to give control.

In line with the new situation, the stockholders will soon elect an 11-man Board of Directors and Taber expects that eight of these directors will be Georgians, the majority of them from Atlanta.

Until recently, the Atlanta Gas Light Company was under control of the Consolidated Gas and Electric Company, of New York City, a holding company. The present setup is in compliance with an order of the Securities and Exchange Commission to free the Atlanta Gas Light Company from such control. Consolidated is complying with this order by exchanging its holding of the Atlanta company's common stock for its own preferred stock.

Concerning the new set-up, Taber said Tuesday:

"The Atlanta Gas Light Company is in the throes of stock distribution, thus complying with the order of the SEC to get it out from under control of the holding company. This deal is practically consummated, and from the information now at hand approximately 38 percent of the common stock of this company is now held in about 90 towns in Georgia.

"We are anxious to make this a locally-owned company and feel we have made an excellent start. By the middle of February, we hope to have a new Board of Directors consisting of 11 men, and it is our hope that eight of these men will be from Atlanta and environs, with perhaps two or three from New York City."

The Atlanta Gas Light Company, chartered in 1856, serves more than 25 Georgia cities and towns, including Atlanta. It is now preparing to extend its lines to other cities in the State.

Under its new capital set-up, At-

U. S. Will Evacuate Panama Army Bases

Force Held To 10-Mile Canal Zone

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23—(AP)—United States troops assigned to the defense of the Panama Canal will be pulled back within the Canal Zone proper following Panama's rejection of an agreement covering the lease of 14 strategic sites in that Republic's territory, the State Department announced Tuesday.

The announcement, made late in the day, upset earlier predictions by United States officials that this country would go on using the 14 sites, including a B-29 bomber base at Rio Hato, 70 miles from Panama City.

The lease agreement, concluded by diplomats two weeks ago, was turned down 51 to 0 Monday by the Panamanian Legislature.

"In accordance with all statements made to the Panamanian Government in the course of the negotiations, the necessary steps will be taken immediately with a view to the evacuation of all sites in the Republic of Panama outside the Canal Zone where United States armed forces are now stationed," the State Department said.

"This withdrawal will be completed as quickly as possible consistent with the number of personnel and the amount of materiel involved."

The Army announced Tuesday night it will begin withdrawal of its forces from the Panamanian territory immediately. It estimated that no more than 2,000 ground and air force troops are stationed at the 14 sites.

The Rio Hato Bomber Base is considered the most important of the installations. The other 13 are mainly fighter strips and radar stations built as part of the close-in defenses of the Canal.

After the Panamanian Assembly's vote was known, but before the State Department announced the forthcoming evacuation of the bases, members of Congress proposed that the United States draw up plans for a new Atlantic-Pacific Canal, perhaps across Nicaragua.

Government officials originally had forecast that the 14 sites would be kept in use, under the contention that the wartime agreement under which they were put into service is still in effect. They contended that the 1942 agreement was effective until one year after the final peace treaty with Japan, but Panamanian officials disagreed.

Although in the view of United States officials the Government has a right to go ahead using the defense sites, they said it would be impracticable to retain them in the absence of a new agreement.

An Administration official who asked anonymity attributed the action of the Panama Legislature to a "wave of hysteria." He said it was quite popular in some Latin-American countries to oppose the United States as "the colossus of the North" and that the Panama action was an extreme example of the sentiment.

The official said "some Communist influence" had been brought to bear, but added that "this was not a Communist maneuver as such. The Commuists just took advantage of the situation."

"The next move is up to Panama," he asserted. "I can't say there will never be renewed negotiations for leases in the future, but I know of no plans for such now. We are moving out in a very permanent fashion."

1,523 'Draft' Violators Get Christmas Pardons

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23—(AP)—Christmas pardons by President Truman Tuesday restored citizenship rights to 1,523 persons convicted of violating the wartime Draft Act. They included conscientious objectors and others.

Most, if not all, of those affected already have served their sentences. The effect of the President's proclamation is a blanket restoration of "political, civil and other rights."

The President acted on the recommendation of an Amnesty Board which he set up a year ago and reviewed 15,805 cases.

The Board was headed by Owen J. Roberts, former Associate Justice of the Supreme Court. He was assisted by Willis Smith, Raleigh, N. C., attorney, and James F. O'Neil, National Commander of the American Legion.

Their report said the 15,805 Selective Service violation cases considered included "approximately 10,000 willful violators, 4,300 Jehovah's Witnesses, 1,000 religious conscientious objectors and 500 other types."

The list of those pardoned did not indicate in which class the Board placed each individual.

"Of this total," the report continued, "618 were granted Presidential pardons because of a year or more service with honorable discharges from the armed forces. An additional approximate 900 entered the armed forces and may become eligible for pardon upon completion of their service.

"When the Board was created there were 1,200 offenders in custody. Since that date, an additional 550 have been institutionalized. At the present time there are 626 in confinement, only 76 of whom were in custody on Jan. 6, 1947."

The Board said it rejected recommendations that it advocate a general amnesty to all violators, asserting such a blanket action would have restored full civil status to some men "who neither were nor claimed to be religious conscientious objectors."

The Board said its work was directed "chiefly to examining the propriety of recommending restoration of civil rights to those who have been returned to their homes."

Although two-thirds or more of the cases studied concerned "wilful violation," the Board said it found in some instances that such violation was due to "ignorance, illiteracy, honest misunderstanding or carelessness not rising to the level of criminal negligence."

But many of the wilful violators had prior criminal records and others had "ulterior motives" for draft dodging, the report said. It concluded that those who for such reasons evaded the law indicated no respect for civil rights anyway and were not recommended for pardons.

The Board said it also did not feel justified in recommending clemency for men who founded their objections to war service "on intellectual, political or sociological convictions resulting from the individual's reasoning and personal economic or political philosophy."

Yugoslavs Grab 160 Fishermen, Italians Report

ROME, Dec. 23—(AP)—The Italian news agency ANSA reported from Bari Tuesday that some 30 Italian motor fishing boats which put to sea recently from Southern Adriatic ports had been captured by the Yugoslavs.

The dispatch quoted crewmen of the one boat that returned to port. It said the boats had crews totaling 160 men and were carrying big catches of fish.

A Second to Eternity

OMAHA, Dec. 23—(AP)—A railroad engineer whose train nearly crashed into a car at Fremont, Neb., last Sunday Tuesday told the young couple in the car: "You were one second from eternity. . . . Please, for God's sake, don't try it again."

Neither the couple nor the engineer was identified. The engineer's letter was published in the Omaha World-Herald. It said, in part:

"When you drove your car across directly in front of a speeding passenger train . . . it was so close that I, in the cab, could see the young girl (your sweetheart, I presume) throw her hands up in front of her face and cringe up against you in stark horror.

"If I were that young girl I'd pull away from you, fast. You probably say you love her; I wonder. Those we love we try to protect.

"Wouldn't that have been a nice Christmas present to hand your mother—a broken and battered body. And how do you think that we in the cab of that engine would feel. We don't want to hit you, but we are helpless.

"You and your girl were one second from eternity Sunday, Son. If I were you, Son, and you, too, Sis, I'd thank God for that split second. I said a prayer . . . when I realized you were going across. Perhaps that's what saved us all. And please, for God's sake, don't try it again."

'PAVE EVERY FOOT'

Travis Tosses Hat In Gubernatorial Ring

A 54-year-old nursery operator from nearby Riverdale came into The Constitution office Tuesday afternoon and announced for Governor on a platform of hard-surfacing every foot of road—State and County—in Georgia within his two-year administration.

The announcement marked Emory Travis' debut into politics, ended some three years of "thinking about running for Governor" by him, and will come (through publication of this story) as a "bombshell surprise to my friends who haven't the slightest idea that I planned such a thing."

The friendly gubernatorial candidate said he had a plan for hard-surfacing the 60,000 miles of unpaved road in Georgia without a prohibitive cost to the taxpayers. He said he would disclose this plan later in his campaign.

"Let us fellow Georgians be the first State in the Union to have every mile of roads in this State hard-surfaced or all-weather roads, where all motor vehicles can travel any road in this State without danger of getting stuck in the mud," Travis said in a public letter he is addressing to Georgia citizens.

Travis promised to improve Georgia's educational system, to offer a more thorough physical education program for boys and girls, and to improve living conditions for every person, regardless of race or color.

Travis was born and reared in Riverdale, Fayette County, where for the past 30 years he has operated a nursery.

COL. MASON J. YOUNG
Takes Engineer Command.

Col. Young Begins Duties as Army Division Engineer

Col. Mason J. Young took over his job here Tuesday as Division Engineer for the South Atlanta Division of the Corps of Engineers of the Department of the Army. He succeeds Col. George W. Gillette, who is retiring after 30 years' service.

A native of New Hampshire, Col. Young has served the South Atlantic Division on several previous occasions.

"It's a real pleasure for me to come back to this division," he said. "There are many important and interesting projects under way in these parts and I'm going to study them and do my best to expedite them."

Col. Young was graduated from West Point in 1915 and has seen service overseas in both World Wars. He was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal for "exceptionally meritorious and distinguished service" during World War II. Other medals he has receved include the Silver Star, the Legion of Merit, the Bronze Star, the Army Commendation Ribbon, the French Legion of Honor, the Croix de Guerre with Palm and the Russian Order of the Red Star.

Previous to World War II, Col. Young served as District Engineer at Providence, R. I., and later at Schofield Barracks, Hawaii, with engineer troops.

Col. Young is married and has four children. He and Mrs. Young will live in Atlanta.

'BACK TALK' TO TRUMAN SCOTCHED BY NEW WALKIE-NO-BACK-TALKIE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23—(AP)—President Truman received a "walkie-no-back-talkie" radio transmitter Tuesday as a Christmas present from Secretary of Commerce Harriman.

With the 6-ounce battery-operated set, the President can communicate with members of his staff provided that (a) they aren't over 200 or 300 feet away, and (b) they are equipped with receivers tuned on a frequency of 6575 kilocycles.

The transmitter was developed by the National Bureau of Standards. It utilizes a printed circuit developed in connection with the proximity fuse.

Best thing about the President's Christmas present is that nobody can talk back to him. The gadget won't receive messages.

THE TROUBLED WORLD

Bombings, Land Grabs, Attacks Herald Advent of 'Day of Peace'

JERUSALEM, Dec. 23—(UP)—A bomb squad of about 40 members of the Jewish extremist Irgun Zvai Leumi organization destroyed an Arab flour mill in the Tel Aviv-Jaffa No-Man's Land Tuesday night and set off a melee in which Jews, Arabs and British soldiers and police fired wildly.

At least one Arab was reported killed and possibly three. Ten Arabs or more were wounded.

The Irgunists threw nine bombs into the flour mill and set it afire. A high wind spread the flames and the building was destroyed in about 10 minutes.

DOUBLE BOMBINGS

TRIESTE, Free Territory—(AP)—Tension mounted in Trieste after 12 persons were injured in two separate bombing incidents in the past two days. The disorders occurred amid Italian-Yugoslav negotiations over the naming of a candidate for civilian Governor of this Free Territory.

Some Allied sources suggested the Yugoslavs probably were ready to accept an Italian or a Western Power candidate to hasten the evacuation of 10,000 United States and British troops now occupying a portion of the Trieste area. These informants added, however, that the Western Powers probably could not be jockeyed into a position of suggesting an acceptable candidate at this time.

FRONT-LINE FIGHTERS

LONDON — (AP)—British coal miners, front-line fighters in the production battle for national economic recovery, were singled out by King George for awards for heroism during the past year.

SWEEPING POWERS

FRANKFURT, Germany—(UP) United States and British authorities have given German officials in their zones sweeping powers to handle their own import and export trade, it has been made known.

Under the new arrangement, disclosed eight days after the failure of the Big Four Ministers Conference in London, Allied advisers will confine themselves to passing on German contracts with agencies and firms in other countries in the final stage alone.

LIQUIDATION INSPECTION

BERLIN — (AP) — The Russians will open their zone of Germany Jan. 2 for an Inter-Allied Commission to inspect progress in liquidation of prime German war plants, it was announced here.

Simultaneously, similar teams will visit each of the other three zones of Germany, occupied by the Western Allies, each team to inspect nine plants.

LAND GRABS

ROME — (AP) — Nation-wide attempts at "land grabs" by Communist-organized peasants demanding expropriation of big estates were forecast as the result of the decisions of a "Land Constituent" Assembly at Bologna.

The Communist newspaper L'Unita and the Allied Socialist newspaper Avanti said 6,000 representatives of farm workers meeting at Bologna had approved creation of a "land front" to agitate for immediate and drastic land "reforms."

USUAL DEADLOCK

VIENNA — (AP) — The Allied Council of Austria wound up its business for 1947 with no agreement on any item of the agenda and the usual three-to-one deadlock on all major issues between the three Western Powers and the Soviet Union.

An American spokesman said later it was obvious the Russians "are playing for time, feeling that, with more time, they can squeeze more out of Austria."

GATEWAYS UNDER ATTACK

PEIPING — (AP) — All gateways to Mukden were under attack in the Communists' seventh Manchurian offensive. Already one of two railroads to the South was cut and fighting alone the other may have left it useless.

Other attacks rolled up from the North, East and West. Guerrillas sweeping across the snowfields also staged harassing raids only 11 miles south of the big industrial city.

Building Safety Unit Modifies Permit Rules for 'Renters'

Georgia's Building Safety Council Tuesday moved to ease the plight of businesses renting space in buildings which lack temporary occupancy permits.

S. B. Jewett, of the Council, said municipalities had been instructed to issue business licenses to these and did not own the buildings. firms provided the firms rented The denial of ownership must be certified.

Previously, the Council had said business licenses would not be issued to any firms housed in buildings lacking temporary occupancy permits.

Jewett charged Savannah residents with being the only Georgians who were failing to co-operate in the drive to eliminate fire hazards.

Savannahans had asked Acting Gov. Thompson to pardon persons failing to obtain temporary permits. Jewett said: "That is the only town in the State in which we have met with any opposition. Everyone else said they would go along with us."

He emphasized that temporary occupancy permits for major buildings were available merely by writing a letter saying the building meets local safety standards. If no standards exist, the property owner says so.

The temporary permit, valid until March 31, is necessary to obtain a new business license. A fine of $100 a day may be imposed against property owners failing to obtain a permit.

Under Georgia law, Thompson could not pardon building code violators even if he wished. The Chief Executive has pardoning powers only in treason cases.

The Board of Pardons and Paroles has the right of pardon but has a rule against pardoning except in cases of wrongful conviction.

While Savannahans objected to the law, Atlantic City Clerk Joe Richardson announced he would require some 11,000 business firms here to comply with the State Safety law before he would issue them business licenses.

Welfare Funds Said Inadequate

Present low grants in welfare aid to dependent children are forcing many mothers to take jobs to support their children, thus breaking up family ties.

This was pointed out by the head of the Child Welfare Association Tuesday as that organization added its support to that of the League of Women Voters for more funds to be granted the Fulton County Welfare Board.

Present scale of grants permits only $24 a month, which must include total care, food, clothing and medicines for the first child, and $18 a month for each additional child, an official revealed. This, she pointed out, totaled only 060 a month for a family of four—the mother and three children.

350 Youth Carolers To Serenade Governor

Three hundred and fifty young carolers from the Georgia Baptist Children's Home, in Hapeville, will serenade Acting Gov. Thompson with a program of Christmas music at 8:30 o'clock tonight on the Executive Mansion lawn.

The Rt. Rev. Raimundo DeOvies, Dean Emeritus of the Cathedral of St. Philip, will act as master of ceremonies.

NEAL ELLIS ON TRIAL—Police Chief Neal Ellis and Asst. Chief E. G. Fitzgerald will go on trial in Judge Wood's Court at 10 a. m. today, but Judge Wood won't be on the bench. Instead, Charley Withers, the Chief's secretary, will preside. Withers announced Tuesday that Ellis and Fitzgerald would be tried and convicted on charges of being good police officers and all around good fellows, then presented with watches. Sheriff Bud Foster, armed with his gold-plated revolver and armored with his solid gold, diamond-studded badge will bring the prisoners into court. Capt. R. E. Flournoy and Lt. Frank French will be the prosecutors, and Capt. Marion Riley and Sgt. Nick Eason defense attorneys.

RAISES FOR COUNTY EMPLOYEES — In a brief meeting Tuesday, the County Commission carried its promise of three months ago and raised the salaries of 1,100 odd employees by $15 per month. The raise will cost the County some $250,000. Elective officials whose salaries are at the maximums fixed by law will not participate in the increase.

MANAGER TAKES OVER—Members of the County Commission Tuesday turned over their prerogatives as chairmen of the various county committees to Manager A. E. Fuller. A motion to that effect, made by Commissioner Charlie Brown, carried unanimously. The resolution stated: "It is our earnest desire to carry out the letter and the spirit of the County Manager law and to do everything in our power to make the County Manager plan an effective and efficient operating reality."

HEALTH CENTERS—Maynard Johnston & Company, as the low bidders, was awarded the contract for construction of three health centers at East Point, College Park and Hapeville. The bid was $96,995 . . . The $51,980 bid of Peter Pirsch & Sons for two aerial ladders for the County Fire Department was accepted. Only two bids were received, and Pirsch's was the lower.

FREEDOM TRAIN CHRISTENING PLANNED—When the Freedom Train pulls into Atlanta Jan. 2, it will be christened by a blend of the waters of the Chattahoochee and Hudson Rivers if plans made Tuesday by Mayor Hartsfield materialize. Hartsfield wired Mayor William O'Dwyer, of New York, to send a flask of Hudson River water to Atlanta for the ceremony. "Please rush a flask of Hudson River water express collect so that New York and Atlanta may join in the ceremonies we plan," Hartsfield said after explaining the christening plans.

INSPECTIONS SET—Stafford W. Graydon, City Health Engineer, has announced ready for the inspection of 2,900 food and drink dispensing places beginning Jan. 2. At that time, Atlanta will begin the first inspections for sanitation of 1,700 grocery stores and meat markets, which must comply with newly enacted health and sanitation standards. Previously, inspectors of the division have inspected 1,200 eating and drink establishments. Under the new effort, all groceries, meat markets and manufacturers and sellers of foods and drinks will be added. Graydon said he will use the same 10-man inspection force he now has.

AROUND THE BEAT—At least one City Hall employee—John W. Sisk, Deputy City Tax Receiver—will celebrate his birthday Christmas Day. City Hall reporters had red faces when the Sisk birthday on Christmas developed after they failed to list a Christmas birthday, but they hedged with an assertion that none had been reported. Sisk will be 32 . . . Atlanta Club members are going to take Christmas to 15 children whom they have adopted temporarily. The organization composed of women employees at the City Hall will distribute toys and eats.

MAYOR'S DAY—Mayor Hartsfield spent the greater portion of Tuesday rushing about doing last minute Christmas shopping even as you and I. He held several conferences, announced officially that the City Hall will be closed Thursday, and wrote some letters. The City Hall will reopen as usual at 8:30 a. m. Friday.

SCHOOLS CLOSED—The holiday for administrative officials of the City School system began officially at noon Tuesday and will extend until next Monday. Students return to their class rooms Jan. 5.

Emory Law Student Represents AVC

James Crawford, Emory University law student, has been appointed Southeastern Field Representative of the American Veterans Committee to organize new chapters of the AVC in Virginia, the Carolinas, Kentucky, Tennessee, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi and Florida.

Crawford is a former Georgia Tech student and charter member of AVC chapters at Tech and Emory. In August, 1946, the young Decatur resident and native of Cornelia was elected Secretary to the Georgia Veterans for majority rule, who filed suit in Federal Court to have the 1946 Democratic Primary in Georgia invalidated, in an unsuccessful contest of the County Unit System.

SANTA VISITS CHIEF HOLCOMBE—Santa Claus, portrayed by Police Capt. Buck Weaver, Tuesday popped into Chief Herbert Jenkins' office at Police Headquarters for a surprise visit to Asst. Chief A. J. Holcombe. Santa brought Chief "Archie" a new suit, a new overcoat, a pair of new shoes, a new hat and a beautiful 21-jewel railroad watch which has engraved across the back: "Chief A. J. Holcombe, January 1, 1948, Atlanta Police." Chief Holcombe, a veteran of 47 years' service with the Department, will be retired Jan. 1 as the result of a recent act of the State Legislature requiring city employees to retire after reaching the age of 65. Chief Jenkins, right, looks over Santa's shoulder as he gives Chief Holcombe one of the gifts.

TROLLEY HEARING—Georgia Power Company has offered to reroute its No. 10 Ansley Park trolley as a substitute for discontinued transportation service between Sixteenth and Nineteenth on Peachtree Street, Walter R. McDonald, chairman of the Public Service Commission, announced Tuesday. A hearing on the plan is set for 2 p. m., Jan. 15. The new plan: reroute Ansley Park trolley, making it continue along Peachtree to Seventeenth rather than turning off at Sixteenth Street. At Seventeenth and Peachtree, the trolley would go along Seventeenth to Peachtree Circle and then to Inman Circle where it would rejoin the existing route. Service on Sixteenth Street between Peachtree and Peachtree Circle would be discontinued.

DUCK STAMP—The Southeastern Association of Game Commissioners wants the price of the Federal duck stamp increased from $1 to $2. Director Charles N. Elliott, of the Georgia Game and Fish Commission, said the Association, representing 11 Southeastern States, feels the increase is needed to provide more protection for migratory game birds. Elliott said 3,866 Federal Duck stamps were sold in Georgia during the last recorded year.

HONOR FOR SMITH—William R. (Pop) Smith, Editor of the Macon News, will be honored at a testimonial dinner in Macon Dec. 30 by the Young People's League for Better Government. Sec. of State Ben W. Fortson will be the principal speaker at the dinner in which Smith will be praised for services in improving the city government in Macon. Former Gov. Arnall, Acting Gov. Thompson, Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook and State Parks Director Charlie Morgan have been invited to attend the exercise.

THIS AND THAT—Phil Landrum, Executive Secretary to Acting Gov. Thompson and overseer of the Capitol's custodial employees, was presented a box of Christmas cigars by the white members of the custodial staff... The Capitol closes at noon today and will remain closed until Monday. . . A 12-minute sound and color movie of Vogel State Park is now available for use by civic clubs and other organizations. Those interested should contact Robert S. Johnston in the Parks Department. . . Similar films, one featuring Jekyll Island, the other combining shots of all the State Parks, will be available shortly... Miss Catherine Tigner, of the State Income Tax Unit, will spend the holidays at her home in Greenville. . . Miss Helen Willis, of the Alcohol Control Unit, is sporting a diamond ring, third finger left hand.

FRAUD CHARGED—The Employment Security Agency of the State Department of Labor has denied further benefits under the servicemen's readjustment allowance program to 10 Atlanta veterans and is preparing charging fraud cases for prosecution in Federal Court by the Veterans Administration, Commissioner of Labor Ben T. Huiet announced. This year the State agency filed 48 fraud cases with the Veterans Administration for prosecution; 12 of these have gone to trial. Ten ex-servicemen pleaded guilty and two others were convicted of fraud. All were sentenced to three years' probation and were ordered to restore the money fraudulently obtained. The 10 cases now under preparation involve six white men and four Negroes. In each case the veterans, in filing his claim for unemployment allowance, failed to report his earnings of the previous week.

American Ships Bring 56 Pct. of Foreign Goods

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23—(AP)—American ships accounted for 56 percent of net vessel tonnage entering United States ports in foreign trade during October, and for 51 percent of net tonnage clearing those ports, the Commerce Department reported Tuesday.

Entrances totaled 9,161,000 net tons and clearances 9,153,000, both being a slight decline from September.

Navy Pilot Killed In Plane Explosion

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Dec. 23—(AP)—A Navy fighter plane exploded in flight today and blew its pilot to his death in the ocean off Eastern Point.

Three fighter planes out of the Squantum, Mass., Air Base were on a routine flight when one piloted by Lt. Joseph F. Tumicki, 25, of Norwich, Conn., ran into difficulties and crashed.

A lobster fisherman—Thomas Randazza—said Tumicki was flung into the air clear of the plane after the explosion about two miles off Eastern Point. Tumicki's body was recovered by the lobster boat.

Just before the crash, Tumicki had radioed his base of engine trouble.

For the past three weeks The Constitution has been offering opportunities for Atlanta's generous to contribute real Christmas cheer to a group of needy families.

The Constitution's Opportunity Fund has listed 22 families whose needs range from a place to live to food that will overcome the effects of malnutrition and medical treatment of disease.

The response has been good, but not as good as last year or the year before. And contributions so far are inadequate to fulfill the barest needs of those on the list.

In fact, H. H. Trotti, Opportunity Fund Treasurer, estimates that at least $2,500 more is necessary to provide a happy Christmas to these 22 families, all of whom have been thoroughly investigated by the Family Service Society and all pronounced worthy cases.

There undoubtedly are thousands of readers who have been promising themselves they would seek out and give to a worthy family or individual this Christmas, but who, for lack of time or other reason, have been unable to do so. For those whose good intentions have thus gone astray, the Opportunity Fund is a ready-made last-minute answer. Contributions may be designated for any one of the 22 cases or may be donated to the Fund for the wisest possible use. And contributors can rest assured that their money will bring its full quota of happiness.

Today is Christmas Eve. It is the final opportunity for Atlantans to demonstrate their generosity to the less fortunate. We are confident the Opportunity Fund goal will be reached and that the contributors will have the satisfaction of knowing they distributed a full measure of Christmas cheer to 22 worthy families.

Still Waiting on a Plan

Herman Talmadge himself has finally given voice to criticism of Acting Gov. Thompson's proposals for a constitutional highway board, as outlined in a letter answering our challenge that gubernatorial candidates "get definite" in their support of a non-political road program.

Some of Mr. Talmadge's objections to the Thompson plan are certainly valid. But the fact remains that the Acting Governor's proposals are the only ones to which any candidate has given voice, categorically and unequivocally.

Our editorial demanding something more than mere lip-service to a non-political highway department was addressed to Mr. Talmadge as well as Mr. Thompson. And while there is much to criticize in the Thompson plan, we believe Talmadge would be in a better position if he would withhold criticism until he, too, is committed to something concrete.

A Good Milk Board Appointment

One of the distributor members having resigned, Acting Gov. Thompson has named Columbus Roberts to the State Milk Control Board.

Understandably, Mr. Roberts at first demurred on the grounds that he was connected with the dairy industry, which already dominates the Board. But when it was pointed out that the Board's membership is stipulated by law to consist of two producers, two producer-distributors, two distributors and two consumers, he accepted.

And glad we are that he did. For while Mr. Roberts is President of the Georgia Milk Producers' Confederation, he is not one of those short-sighted dairymen who refuses to realize that by ruthlessly refusing to countenance competition in the field they have antagonized the public and are retarding the expansion of their market.

We remain of the opinion that the State Milk Control Board is a useless, harmful and probably unconstitutional appendage of State government which should be abolished at the earliest opportunity.

But until such time as it can be completely eliminated—or at least revised to accord consumers at least the same percentage of membership as the dairy industry—the public's only hope for consideration lies in having men of Mr. Roberts' caliber and character on it.

Concerning Negro Policemen

Word from the Police Department is that careful screening of Negro applications for positions on the Department has begun.

This is as it should be. Careful screening and establishment of a Negro precinct station, since the Negro policemen will work only in Negro districts and will have no contact with white persons, unless they come upon them in commission of a serious crime, when they will act only until other officers arrive, are a part of the plan.

The attempt by some members of the Council and members of hate organizations to make of this decision, backed by the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, to have Negro police in Negro sections to be an affront to the white population, was reprehensible and false.

Almost every Southern city of size save Atlanta long ago adopted the plan and it has worked efficiently and has decreased Negro crime. Charleston, Charlotte, Jacksonville, Richmond, Miami and Macon, Ga., are just a few of the Southern cities where the plan has proved not merely successful but desirable. Savannah has recently added three more Negro policemen.

In all cities the plan had the opposition, at the outset, of many members of the force. Without exception that opposition has been entirely, or largely, dissipated by results.

For the opposition to seek to make it appear that an unusual or an improper action has been taken merits the condemnation of all thoughtful citizens.

THE PULSE OF THE PUBLIC

Smoking

Editor Constitution: I have just read Mr. Harry J. Cook's letter in regard to smoking in close public places. I, too, think that smoking should not be permitted in stores, elevators and busses. There are many people old and young who are allergic to the odor of cigars and cigarettes, especialy so in closed busses. Think of the many babies and small children who are half stifled from smoke. The injury you are doing to poor helpless babies is far greater than the pleasure you derive from smoking. Perhaps it is not selfishness, but thoughtlessness. If so, put on your thinking cap and do unto others as you would have them do unto you. I take my hat off to Mobile and Memphis. They have the Christian spirit.

VIOLA RICHARDSON.

CIO Reply

Editor Constitution: We would be willing to grant that sometimes "The Law Is an Ass," but we would suggest that in applying that appellation to it in the DeMille case, the Constitution should look for the mote in its own eye.

In the DeMille case, his union made a democratic decision. DeMille, as a member with all the rights and privileges to oppose and work against the decision, refused to abide by the will of the majority once it was made evident. The courts upheld the right of the majority to make decisions and to expect that they be followed by all members.

The path The Constitution is advocating would, if applied to other fields, prohibit the Federal Government from collecting income taxes from a citizen who does not approve the income tax law. It would compel a church to retain in membership an avowed athiest.

KENNETH DOUTY.

The Constitution welcomes letters on either side of any subject. They should not exceed 200 words and must be signed, although names will be withheld on request. We regret none can be returned.

The Duchess Was Lovely

Editor Constitution: I enjoyed very much Mr. Ken Stambaugh's article "The Duchess Sits for a Portrait." I spent nearly three years in Luxembourg (including 47 days in a cellar during the offensive of Runstedt in December, 1944), and worked also as a speaker in Radio-Luxembourg, at that time the station of the United Nations.

I happened to see Charlotte, the Grand Duchess of Luxembourg, and certainly agree with Mr. Stambaugh; she is a lovely person and looks beautiful in the pictures even without make-up.

Editor Constitution: We the people of Walton County are not going to let the Negro run over us, although we are not low down enough to burn churches or schoolhouses.

And just because the Negroes fell out among themselves, the writer of a letter which appeared recently said the white people burned the schoolhouses and churches. He also said there was no such thing as a Negro feud.

Why then do you hear almost every day that one Negro has killed another one? I guess he just wanted to see someone die because surely they didn't get mad at each other.

Well the other fellow didn't have nerve to sign his name, but I will.

Will There Be War---Communism?

Turning to my notes on Germany to answer additional questions:

"Will Communism conquer Europe?"

That question is inevitably linked with two others, which may as well be put down along with it:

"How long will we have to stay in Europe?"

"Will we have a war?"

For answers, I will turn to the pages of notes made in Berlin and to other pages made in Frankfurt, Germany. They are from quotations from Gen. Lucius Clay, of Georgia, who is the commanding officer in our occupied zones of Europe. He wears two hats, so to speak. He is commander of the armed forces and he is head of military government.

He is highly respected. Indeed, I think it safely may be said he is the most respected personality in occupied Europe. His stature is high in all the Allied councils. The Russian respect for him may be measured by the extent and bitterness of their attacks on him. As of the present they have been so angered by his refusal to accept all their demands they have compared him only with Hitler and Goebbels.

They are currently seeking to bar the papers published in the American zone, after having agreed to allow them in the Soviet zone in return for circulation of their own, freely given, in the American zone. These same papers are sold on the black market in the Soviet zone and there is a heavy demand for them.

So much for that phase.

Answers Now for the answers by Gen. Clay to the two questions: Will Communism conquer Europe, and how long will we have to stay in Europe?

"As long as we have a thin line of troops along the Elbe River, Communism will not conquer Europe," said Gen. Clay in a long press conference of more than four hours with the visiting editorial group.

"We do not need more than a thin line, and I would not want a large force if it were available. As long as we have troops who will shoot if they have to do so, there will be no war for at least 15 or more years. As long as we are here we will defend our position and American decisions. As long as that is known, Communism will not conquer and we will not have war.

"It is important, and I am asking you gentlemen to let America know, that we must maintain our troops here for as long as it takes to do the job.

"If we approach it from the viewpoint that we will stay for 50 years, if it takes that long, then I think we can do the job in less. We might do it in five years or 10 years. But we will not be able to do it at all—keep Communism back of the Elbe or prevent a war—if we do not let Europe know we will stay here as long as is needed to do the job."

Weakness It so happened that I have always believed that the fatal weakness of our foreign policy—and have winced at the great damage done this country by Sen. Robert Taft and others who think like him—is the fact that Europe doesn't know how long we will stay. The Russians are seeking to push us out and the greatest friends the Communist cause have in Europe are those American Congressmen and Senators who want to put our status in Europe on a year-to-year basis.

No European can afford to stand up and be counted in the fight against Communism as long as he knows we might pull out next year, or the year after, and leave him at the mercy of the Communist hordes who would engulf Europe and put him at the mercy of secret police and persecution.

It was interesting to me to see editors on this journey who were from Republican and isolationist papers, slowly swing around to this position when they had seen the real conditions.

Failure One of the most damning accusations which may be made against Sen. Taft is that he, as the leader of his party, did not have enough interest in the most pressing problem, domestic or international, to go and see the conditions so as to be able to properly lead his party.

Communism makes progress in the occupied countries through fear. In the zones it controls it completely communizes the people in a very simple manner.

If you do not join the Communist Party you do not get a job and you do not eat.

And once you join there is always the secret police, with its elaborate spy system, to see that you stay in line.

In other zones they make relatively little progress.

So, in a very real sense, it is up to this country to answer the questions, "Will Communism conquer Europe, and will there be another war soon?"

Bread for 4 Britons In Export Bicycle

There is a little lesson in the matter of international trade contained in a brief statement put out recently by a British government agency. In one paragraph, included in an article about the second postwar British Industries Fair, to be held in London from May 3 to 14 next, it is pointed out that, for 1947, Britain holds first place in the world's bicycle industry, producing more than 2,000,000 cycles for the year.

Of these 2,000,000, however, 1,400,000 are marked for export. The importance of these wheels for export is seen in the explanation that one such bicycle sent abroad to a wheat-producing country such as Canada, returns to Britain its equivalent value in wheat, approximately 800 pounds, which is sufficient to provide bread for a family of four for an entire year.

And, if you are familiar with the shortages of food in Britain today, with the drastic food rationing which has to be retained through these postwar years, the importance of the bicycle industry to British economics is obvious.

Trade Credits International trade, of course, is not conducted on a direct barter system. The British bicycle manufacturer does not bargain with a Canadian purchaser as to how many bushels of wheat he is to receive in payment for his product.

But, by selling his wheels in Canada, he does build up a credit balance in that country. That balance may be used in many ways. One way is for the purchase of wheat by the British government, or some British milling company, which has acquired the right to the use of the credit in the normal course of business with the cycle manufacturer.

Perhaps, though, the bicycle manufacturer owes a tin producer in Burma for the tin he has imported as material for the making of his wheels. Or perhaps for rubber he has imported for his tires from some other country. Having created that credit in Canada, he uses it to pay his Burmese creditor who, in turn, is indebted to some other Canadian industry for some Canadian product. So the Burma tin producer pays his Canadian creditor with the Canadian credit sent him by the British bicycle maker, who secured it by shipping his wheels for sale in Canada.

And the British manufacturer, perhaps, pays over his profit, the Canadian credit balance left to his account, for taxes he owes his own government. Then the government uses that credit to pay for wheat or some other Canadian product so urgently needed in Britain.

It sounds involved, but it is not difficult to understand. And, despite all the ramifications of world-wide commerce, eventually it all simplifies down to that plain illustration with which this column began—one British-made bicycle, exported to Canada, can bring back to Britain sufficient wheat to feed a British family of four for a year.

Which is why British export of bicycles and similar manufactured articles is so important to that country.

Increased Values Britain has always lived, and prospered, on its manufactures. It imports the raw materials, multiplies their value in its factories and exports them for sale abroad. With the proceeds it buys the food, the luxuries, the needs of its people and brings them into its home ports.

For Britain is too heavily populated for it to be possible for it to feed its own people on the products of its own fields. It must import or die.

Therein is the reason for the present British economic stringency. It so drained itself for the war, its foreign credits are near exhaustion, it must choose, too often, between buying food to import or raw material for its factories. Without sufficient food its workers cannot work—yet without the output of its factories it cannot provide the credits to pay for its imported foods, etc.

Only by the present terrific self-denial, through rationing, and the slow rebuilding of its manufactured goods exports, can Britain hope to regain its own security.

Each bicycle it exports means much. Bread is more important to Britons than new wheels. It is a simple illustration of an economic, national problem.

Worth thinking over, it seems to me.

A Problem Of the Heart

A gal who used to work in one of my early beer parlors stopped in to see me yesterday. "I have a problem in the heart department," she said, "and I wonder if you'd mind playing Mr. Anthony?"

I told her I'd rather not.

"For old time's sake, you'll have to chance it," said the gal. "I've been going around with a writer. I figured him for a pretty square gent until I started reading his books. Then I discovered he made a living by blowing the whistle on his friends—putting the squitch on people whose footwear he isn't fit to lick. I figured it's only a matter of time before he gives me the same treatment. I'd like to give him the brush without making an enemy of him. How do I go about it, Mr. Anthony?"

"DID HE give you any presents?" I asked.

"Several," said the gal.

"Well," I oracled, "no two cases are alike, but maybe I can help you by telling you the story of Margie and how she put a period to her romance."

"Was her fellow a writer, too?" asked my visitor.

"No," I deadpanned. "A rubber-outer. Margie used to sing with the band in one of my joints back in the Twenties. A nice kid — strictly third-finger-on-the-left-hand stuff. The chorus girls knew it and formed a 'Protect Margie Association.'

"One night an important needle beer salesman dropped in to give my joint a play. After hearing Margie sing a chorus of 'Japanese Sandman,' he sent her a quart of champagne Pretty Willie — that was his name—came around the next night and the next night after that.

"The Protect Margie Association got worried. Some of the kids argued that if she was stuck on Willie, that was her affair. But Joan, the chorus captain, said she wasn't going to stand by and let a pal jump off the Brooklyn Bridge.

"Between shows the next night, Joan asked Margie what she knew about Pretty Willie.

"'Nothing,' said the little thrush, 'except that his family is in the steel business.'

"'Steel is right,' said Joan, 'only the second E is an A."

"And then Joan leveled. She told Margie that the bum was throwing stardust in her eyes—that he had his bloody fingers in every dirty racket in Manhattan—that he was doing a one-man job of paving the bottom of the East River with people who didn't buy his beer—and that his calling card was a machine gun.

"WELL, we didn't see Margie for the next six or seven days. And then one night she dropped by the club with her valise. She went backstage, thanked the girls for everything, and told them she was going back to her home town that night. On her way out, she handed me a little box. 'Willie gave me some presents,' she said. 'Gold things, mostly. They're all in this package. I wish you'd give it to him the next time he comes in.'

"Pretty Willie showed up a few days later. Said he had been to Detroit on a little business. When he asked for Margie, I told him she had gone back home, and handed him the package. He took it to his table and opened it.

"Well, if not for a couple of my associates, I think he would have broken up the joint.

"Margie had returned his gold trinkets, all right—but she had had them melted down and remoulded into a miniature machine gun."

"That's a cute story, Mr. Anthony," said my visitor. 'And it gives me an idea. My writer friend likes to holler copper on his pals. I think I'll have his presents melted down into a gold police whistle."

If It's Not the Spirit But the Gift That Counts

For the benefit of last-minute shoppers, I come today with a few suggestions culled from perusal of the tonier magazines at one of the better barbershops.

The $4.95 shirts and the $2 neckties have been pretty well picked over, I mean, and the size nine nylons and the gifts to gladden any feminine heart from $1 to $9.98 have long since been depleted. Happily still to be found, unless Barnum's estimate was low, are a number of items ranging from a 14-karat shaving mug ($840) to genuine leopard bedroom slippers for milady (a mere $75 the pair).

The $840 for the shaving mug includes tax, of course. And, if you are one of those economical souls who always wants to see something a little less expensive, there's a special on solid gold suspenders with cuff links to match . . . just $482.

Then, too, a $3,000 suitcase is available at one of the smarter Fifth Avenue shops . . . anybody who can get $3,000 for a suitcase, and it not loaded with butter, is plenty smart these days.

If he's the gadget type, for a paltry $250 plus installation you can pick up a device which attaches to the top of the house and indicates on a dial inside which way the wind is blowing.

This is especially recommended for people who like to know which way the wind is blowing.

Crime Centers and Child Prisoners

As might be expected, Fulton County led Georgia in the number of crimes during the past fiscal year. And, as might be expected, the larger cities of the State furnished the most criminals in the State's prisons. These facts are revealed in the annual report of the State Department of Correction just released by Director Charles Williams. Fulton County sent 361 persons to the State prisons for felony crimes and 824 for misdemeanor crimes. These do not include the persons who paid fines or who were given probated sentences.

Ranking next to Fulton, Muscogee County sent 107 persons to State prisons for felony crimes. Bibb sent 95, Chatham 90, and Richmond was low among the big-city counties with only 36. On misdemeanor crimes, Chatham ranked second to Fulton, having 205. Bibb had 136, Muscogee 118, Ware 63, Spalding 38, and Richmond again ranked very low with 37.

Some Send None Nine counties failed to send any persons to the State prisons during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1947, Williams said. This does not necessarily mean that these counties were free of crimes. Their law violators may have been permitted to pay a fine or serve their terms on probation outside of the State prison walls, or they may have had some unsolved crimes. Generally speaking, however, it means they had the best record in Georgia.

Those counties failing to send any person at all to State prison were:

Baker, Banks, Brantley, Butts, Glascock, Lincoln, Marion, Taliaferrio and Towns.

The following counties sent no persons to the State prisons for violating the felony laws, the more serious types of crimes: Baker, Banks, Brantley, Butts, Clinch, Glascock, Lincoln, Marion, Miller, Oconee, Quitman, Schley, Stewart, Taliaferro, Towns, Turner, Union, Webster and Wheeler.

The following counties sent no persons to the State prisons for violating misdemeanor laws:

Atkinson, Baker, Banks, Brantley, Butts, Camden, Forsyth, Glascock, Hart, Jasper, Jenkins, Lamar, Lincoln, Long, Marion, Taliaferrio, Taylor, Towns, Twiggs, White and Wilkinson.

Crime School The report showed that prison life is not conducive to making good citizens out of boys and girls. The State's penal reform program first separated the juveniles as best as possible at Tattnall Prison. Then, about a year ago, it set up an "honor camp" for the boys and girls under 18 years of age. To the unguarded "honor camp" at Battey Hospital go those well-behaved juveniles to work the hospital farm and prepare meals for the patients. This camp has a fine vocational training program and a fine sports program, and is far removed from the prison camp atmosphere of Tattnall. But this camp is not large enough to care for all the boys and girls who should be there. It cares for about 150.

The report showed that many youths stay in crime once they go to prison. Of 143 white boys under 18 years of age sent to prison last year, 45 were repeaters. Of 11 white girls, five were repeaters. The ratio of repeaters among Negroes showed 62 repeaters among 268 boys, and 10 repeaters among 41 girls. There were a total of 463 children sent to prison in Georgia during the year.

Director Williams joins Director Lon Sullivan of the Georgia Citizens Council in urging that the home life of the boys and girls be improved so they will not fall into crime.

Construction Report When the State started reforming its prison system during the Arnall administration, it first had to start spending hundreds of thousands of dollars to build an adequate State prison. Williams reports that that building program has been completed.

"At the present time we have facilities on the prison reservation which will properly house all the necessary employees of the institutions, and we have barns and other structures which are adequate in every detail for the proper handling of livestock, poultry and horses and mules," said Williams.

When Santa Carried A Lighter Pack

Taking small boys out of knickerbockers and putting them into long pants as soon as they got out of diapers, a transposition which took place some years ago, added one more complication to the already complicated Christmas situation. I have just returned, somewhat trampled and disheveled, from a four-hour tour of the stores in search of one of those fancy red Christmas stockings that look like they would fit an elephant. I didn't find any, and I don't know what my youngest offspring is going to do on Christmas morning. It seems that in this day and time not just any old stocking will do to hang up on Christmas Eve. You have to have a red stocking, with white fur around the top, and little jingle bells on it. It holds about a bushel, and costs more, if you can find one, than the entire contents of a Christmas stocking cost when I was a boy.

In that not too far distant time nobody worried about hanging up fancy stockings. You just hung up one of those long-ribbed black stockings that you wore to school. It held about three oranges in the foot, with a handful of pecans and walnuts filling up the cracks, and above that the space could be satisfactorily filled with one large candy walking stick and a box of sparklers. Now it takes a baby grand piano to fill up one of these fancy red stockings. Those were fine stockings, those old-fashioned black ones. When they wore out you could unravel them and make a ball and soak it in kerosene and light it, and on dark nights you could have a lot of fun throwing this kerosene ball around, though when the small boys were out and around with a kerosene ball every cat in the neighborhood took to the woods. A cat that has had a blazing kerosene ball tossed in its direction never quite gets over the shock. A blazing kerosene ball lives in a cat's memory longer than Halley's comet lives in the memory of the patriarchs who witnessed it.

Jumps The old-fashioned black-ribbed stocking had another merit also. You could take one of these stockings and split it and roll it up lengthwise and wrap string around it to hold it sort of kinked up, and tie another string to it, a long string, and use it as a snake to frighten people with as they walked home from the movies, or from revival meetings on moonlit nights.

I remember I used to marvel at some of the language used by neighbors of mine who were on their way home from church when they suddenly found what they considered a long black snake to be traversing the sidewalk beneath their feet. It was also a marvel to me how high some of the city fathers could jump, from a standing start. The champion, I think, was a Mr. Robert Black, a roly-poly merchant, who could leap four feet without half trying, uttering a piercing cry of alarm at the same time, and exceeding by at least six inches the best record of the postmaster, Mr. Lint Dunson. The broad jump record though, was held by Mr. Luther Farabee, who traversed 42 feet in two leaps one night when his son Jack, who was pulling the string, pulled it a little too slowly, causing the snake to get tangled around his father's ankles.

Trait of Yore But I was talking about Christmas, and this snake-pulling enterprise was always a Summer sport. One other thing that seems different about Christmas now and when I was younger is the lack of curiosity on the part of modern youngsters about what is in those packages in the closet. They seem content to wait until Christmas morning to find out what Santa Claus is going to bring. I never could wait. In fact, some of the best presents Santa Claus ever brought me showed suspicious signs of wear and tear when I finally found them under the tree on Christmas morning. The year I got skates I sneaked them out about a week before Christmas and peeled all the skin off one side of my face when I hit a place in the sidewalk where a root had bumped it up. And the year I got the air rifle I found it hidden behind a desk in my father's office and had already killed two sparrows with it and had shot my friend and neighbor, Skinny Johnson, in the ear with it three days before it was formally presented to me on Christmas morning. It was a fine shot, and I will always remember it, for when Skinny saw I was drawing a bead on him from across the street he took refuge behind a large elm and all I could see of him was his ear. I don't believe Daniel Boone ever made a better shot than that.

Ambush On the day before Christmas I walked out on the porch of my house and something went "zip" beside my ear and a small leaden pellet stuck in the side of the house behind my head. Before I could take cover a second shot took me on the wrist, stinging considerably. Aroused by being shot in the ear, Skinny had searched his house until he found his Christmas air rifle, and had ambushed me from across the railroad track. He had me over the barrel, too, for he had a pump gun and mine was a single shot.

But all of this talk is getting me nowhere and I must be out and about again, trying to find one of those fancy red Christmas stockings with the bells on it. But over in the corner, where its austere, old-fashioned ugliness won't be too noticeable, I think on Christmas Eve I'll hang one of those old long black stockings, just as a memento of an earlier, simpler time, when Christmas was a lot of fun even though Santa Claus did travel with a considerably lighter pack.

Shielding Alien Conspirators From Exposure

WASHINGTON — American traitors and alien spies of the Communist conspiracy have been shielded from exposure by the very difficulty of presenting the facts to the public. There are hundreds of pages of testimony, always difficult reading and difficult to condense. There are interlacing relationships of persons and organizations. There are thousands of names of individuals, including assumed names, and of committees, councils, congresses, leagues and the like.

The reptilian trails of Gerhart and Hanns Eisler, Austrian refugees from Hitler's gas chambers, twist and squirm through the minutes of the Thomas Committee on un-American Activities which exposed Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt's brazen interference with the State Department on behalf of Hanns Eisler when otherwise he would have been excluded from our country as a Communist. Both brothers could have gone to Russia to escape the Nazi crematory, but that was not their plan. They came here, and Eleanor got busy to help Hanns crash our gate.

J. EDGAR HOOVER, Director of the FBI, disposes of Gerhart's statement that he was not a Communist in a report to the Thomas Committee, which says:

"In 1941, Gerhart Eisler became active in the American Communist movement. In recent years he has been a figure of importance in connection with the policies and operations of the Communist party, U. S. A. . . . from approximately 1933 to approximately 1938, (he) was the representative of the Communist International to the Communist party, U. S. A. He was responsible for the control and direction of American Communist operations. Eisler was the liaison between the authorities in Moscow and the Communist party, U. S. A."

Remember, this was the brother of Eleanor's protege, Hanns Eisler.

Gerhart Eisler drew a living allowance in New York from the joint Anti-Fascist Refugee Committee. Howard Fast, a Communist writer, was sentenced to jail and fined for refusing to give the Thomas Committee information about this Front.

Mrs. Roosevelt gratuitously gave publicity to a book by Fast and she invited to dinner at the White House a naturalized Yugoslav named Louis Adamic who exploited that socio-political episode into a book of the same name ridiculing Winston Churchill, a fellow guest, particularly in regard to Britain's Balkan policy. Adamic's social status with Eleanor the Great is shown by his inclusion in this party organized in the presidential mansion of the United States ostensibly to honor the British Prime Minister but actually to heckle and ridicule him.

Adamic, a physical giant, was a non-belligerent partisan of Marshal Tito, who signalized his debt to the American liberators of Yugoslavia by slaughtering five unarmed, unwary American fliers. Tito's return to Yugoslavia from his safe exile in Russia was financed by the joint Anti-Fascist Refugee Committee. When American boys were bombing the Nazi out of his native land, Mrs. Roosevelt's friend, Adamic, was with them in spirit, but his feet were under the table at 1600 Pennsylvania Ave., Washington, D. C.

WHEN GERHART was being examined by the immigration men at Ellis Island in June, 1941, and swearing that he was not a Communist, brother Hanns, admitted to our country through the interference of Eleanor the Great, had the effrontery to testify for him. Why not? The dumb Americans would believe anything.

Among other statements, Hanns said he was employed as a "professor" of music at the new School of Social Research, the good faith of this "school" in this harboring of an international parasite and frequent pilgrim to Moscow was touched upon by Donald T. Appell, an investigator for the Thomas Committee, last September. Mr. Appell is an expert in the mysteries of accounts who served as captain in the Finance Corps of the Army and in the Bureau of the Budget.

Robert Stripling, the chief investigator, said the purpose of Appell's testimony was to show that Hanns Eisler's position as "professor" was a subterfuge for the purpose of permitting him to stay here without true legal justification.

A letter was introduced from Sumner Welles, Under-Secretary of State, to Eleanor. It said the department now had definite information that Hanns was not a "professor of music abroad within the letter and spirit of the law." Therefore he could not enter the United States in non-quota status.

Hanns, on his part, not only claimed to be a professor and one of the great composers of the ages, but an artist "may I add, of international reputation."

BUT WHEN his merits were boiled down he was found to be just a panhandling music teacher. And, against his name, notwithstanding Eleanor's intervention, a summary and commentary compiled by the State Department read: "The evidence establishes preponderantly that Eisler is a Communist."

Mr. Appell slashed through the new school's accounts and exposed a "Hanns Eisler Scholarship Fund" as a pretext to create a false estimate of Eisler's stature.

Doctor Johnson, the Presi- of the "new school," "with the apparent purpose of qualifying Eisler as a non-quota visa applicant, changed his status from lecturer in music to professor of music," Mr. Appell said.

"Doctor Johnson stated that the new school and its students were so enthusiastic over his work that they wanted him to remain permanently," the witness continued. "Therefore, the appointment committee authorized the President to extend a five-year appointment with the title of professor at $3,000 a year. With respect to this appointment which was prompted by the overwhelming enthusiasm of the school and its students, I should like to refer to the pay cards and attendance records. In two courses conducted by Eisler from Oct. 5, 1935, to Jan. 18, 1936, no more than eight students attended the course on 'musical composition.' Only three attended the course on 'the crisis of modern music.' He received only $100 for lecturing four months and this was paid from the Eisler Scholarship Fund. The school lost $34.77 on these two courses. On March 29, 1938, when Dr. Johnson wrote the letter prompted by the overwhelming enthusiasm Eisler had seven students in 'musical composition,' one student in 'counterpoint' with the third course having been canceled after the first lecture."

Primer of Labor's Bill of Rights

Editor's Note: Following is one of a series of articles explaining in simple, non technical language the provisions of the controversial Taft-Hartley labor law.

The Wagner Act made it an unfair labor practice for an employer to refuse to bargain collectively with a union if that union had been duly chosen as the bargaining agent by a majority of the workers affected.

Retaining this provision fully, the Taft-Hartley law goes further and makes it an unfair labor practice for the union to refuse to bargain collectively with management under the same circumstances.

Since the old law did not define the words "bargain collectively" a great deal of litigation and confusion resulted in proceedings before the National Labor Relations Board. The new law seeks to make up for this deficiency and to clear up much of the confusion which exists as the result of various Board decisions on the question.

It provides that employer and union alike have a mutual obligation to meet at reasonable times, to confer IN GOOD FAITH on wages, hours, working conditions, and questions arising under existing agreements; and to reduce to writing any agreement which may be reached between them if either party requests it.

It specifically declares, however, that this mutual obligation does NOT compel either party to agree to any proposal or to make any concession. Thus if an employer demands that the union accept a 15-cent wage cut, the union is not required to offer to accept a 5-cent wage cut, for example, as proof that it is bargaining collectively in good faith. It may refuse flatly to consider any wage cut. Under the old law, however, employers who refused to make similar concessions when faced by union demands were sometimes held guilty of an unfair labor practice.

Peanuts For Better Health

It occurs to me that this is fine peanut weather. The frost is on everything in sight, including the pumpkin, if any, and from where we sit it is as high as a cat's back. The wily peanut was built for this kind of weather. It was pumped full of the best of everything by a discerning Nature for just such days as these. It is filling, it is energizing, it is appetizing and it is satisfying. It is good for man or beast.

It is good for all climates and under all situations, the Yankee baseball fan no less than the Dixie sub-deb with her favorite cola surcharged with an inch of peanuts in the bottom of the bottle. A sack of Georgia peanuts should be included in every school child's lunch box and in every workingman's dinner pail for they round out and complete the dietary requirements. And they supply that final touch the lunch box lacks without them. So . . . they are good for you and they are good.

BOILED peanuts are hard to beat, roasted peanuts are even harder to beat. Plain ordinary peanuts like one buys at the circus or pulls up in bunches from out his own patch are just right for munching between meals. In fact, one of the superadvantages of the open fireplace is that you may sit there and throw the shells in or toward the fire.

Some years back, our friend, Jim Hicks, went duck hunting down in deep South Georgia and spent the night at a farmhouse where there was a house full of children. He had never seen a more robust family, they fairly sparkled. At dinner, he was served along with the family a mess of turnip salad, cooked in peanut potlikker, with the peanuts removed from the greens while still firm and served as meat.

The peanut oil gave the greens the necessary fat and the peanut meats added the protein and substance required for the proper balance. The combination was tasty and satisfying.

JIM HICKS was enthusiastic over the new dish and drew from the farmer's wife the story of its discovery. "We had been using our peanuts to feed our hog and then we would use the hog meat with the greens and finally one year we lost our hog and had to use the peanuts or go without meat entirely, so we tried out this experiment and it worked so well, we have been doing it ever since. And the amazing thing is that our children and ourselves began to pick up and improve in health and energy and we've been in better health ever since. The children are doing much better in school, also."

Slowly but surely we learn that the Old Master has put it here for us. And He outdid Himself when He made the Georgia peanut.

OLLIE REEVES

CHRISTMAS EVE

Listen, all children, the time's drawing near . . . for Santa, with all of his gifts, to appear . . . and while you may wonder how he will get through . . . with all of the travel and work he must do . . . he never has failed us, come famine or flood . . . or travel routes lost in the snow or the mud.

Some people will tell you he doesn't exist . . . that he is a phantom, a wraith of the mist . . . but we used to know him, before we grew old . . . and listened to all the false tales that were told . . . we doubted a little and somehow he learned . . . and would you believe it, he never returned.

Oh, he's a smart man who is hard to deceive . . . but if he's your friend, you just got to believe . . . you can't trust your knowledge, your learning and such . . . there are things you can't see and some things you can't touch . . . yet they are as real as the tides and the sands . . . and the mountain which in its solidity stands.

So listen, all children, don't ever grow wise . . . and Santa will bring you a wondrous surprise.

GALLUP POLL

For Peace: A World Government

By GEORGE GALLUP,
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

PRINCETON, N. J.—The way to bring peace on earth is not to sit back and dream about it but to take active steps to form a world government. That's the opinion of a majority of voters polled in five leading nations—the United States, England, Canada, Holland and Sweden.

In each nation there is a substantial public sentiment in favor of strenthening the United Nations to make it a world government having control over the armed forces of each member country.

Polling on this subject has been done by affiliates of the Gallup Poll who each month conduct a survey on some problem or question common to all countries.

The issue put to voters in the United States, Holland and Sweden was as follows:

"Do you think the United Nations should be strengthened to make it a world government with power to control the armed forces of all nations, including the United States?

The vote:

	Yes	No	No opin.
U. S. A.	56%	30%	14%
Holland	44	20	36
Sweden	47	15	38

The same general issue was put to voters in Britain and in Canada in the Summer of 1946, with the following results:

Would you be willing to have our country turn over control of all armed forces and munitions, including atom bomb material, to a world parliament provided leading countries did the same?"

	Yes	No	No opin.
Canada	59%	29%	12%
England	50	27	23

The Canadian poll went even further in its questioning, asking Canadians whether they would be willing to turn over control of Canada's foreign policy to a world parliament if other nations did likewise. The vote came out 51 percent in favor, 34 percent opposed and 15 percent undecided.

BUGS BAER

West Point has shucked its Army mules for the good of the service. Mostly because their upkeep was exorbitant while their speed was not atomic.

Progress in war is mechanical and there is no sentiment in replacements. But let there be no equestrian statue of Grant or Lee in the sidecar of a motorcycle.

If you have never curry-combed an Army mule above the hocks you have never lived. The energy expanded is far in excess of the benefits derived and the position is vulnerable.

JOHNNY BRADBERRY

A Brief Report On Lots of Things

Catching up the loose ends with bits from here and there:

A letter from E. E. Colson regarding our recent piece for the paper about the 1948 Crackers asked what has become of Barney Cook and Charley Mistos, since our probable roster didn't include these boys.

Their names were omitted through oversight and both are still property of the Crackers. It is possible that Mistos will be traded before the season starts but Cook is being counted on as a starter.

Barney had his best year with the Crackers after turning pitcher back in 1945, winning 16 games. He was drafted by Toledo the next year and eventually sent to Memphis, where he had another good year.

However, last season Barney started off by winning seven straight for the New Orleans Pelicans and then suddenly seemed to develop a "first-inning" complex.

Manager Cuyler believes he'll stage a comeback and be one of the mainstays of the Cracker mound staff next year.

Mr. Colson also asks where the Crackers obtained Ed Gysen. He was with Charleston in the Sally League last season. He joined Charleston after obtaining his release from the Athletic organization last season. He's a right-hander with a lot of stuff.

Rabenhorst's Luck LSU's basketball team is an entrant in the Fort Worth Invitational Tournament Dec. 29-31, but wouldn't be if Coach Harry Rabenhorst had known when he accepted what he knows now.

The Bayou Tigers were one of the SEC's best quintets last year and Rabenhorst figured the same squad would return for competition this season.

However, Frank Brian, the team's leading scorer, checked out to join a professional team. Then Bobby Lowther, the other first-team forward, suffered a compound fracture of a leg in the SEC track meet at Birmingham.

In Midsummer, Joe Bill Adcock and Jim Gremillion signed pro baseball contracts with the Cincinnati Reds, thus forfeiting further collegiate eligibility. And to top it off, Bubber Webb and Billy Walters were declared ineligible.

So Rabenhorst will enter the Fort Worth tournament with a club which has won only one of five games thus far this season.

Cards Generous The Chicago Cardinals have voted to split their share of the National Football League championship against the Philadelphia Eagles into 40 full shares.

One of them will go to the widow of Jeff Burkett, the former LSU star, who was killed in a plane crash Oct. 24 returning from California to rejoin his professional teammates.

He missed returning with them because of an appendectomy.

Incidentally, the Cardinal victory in the Western division of the league has proven a popular one, especially with sports writers around the nation, because of Coach Jimmy Conzelman.

Jimmy is one of the scribes' favorites because of his ready wit, acceptance of his fate without question, and everlasting optimism.

Good Average Jim Hearn, the Atlanta boy who made good with the St. Louis Cardinals as a pitcher his first year in the big time, was interested in the official statistics of the National League during his visit to the sports department the other day.

The records revealed Jim hit one batter and made one error in the field.

"Yea," he recalled. "I hit Bert Haas of the Reds in the ribs on a first pitch one day. And that error: Musial was playing off the bag at first with a runner on and I tried to pick him off without looking. The ball sailed over the runner's head into right field."

Hearn said Ben Chapman, the Philly manager, was the toughest bench jockey in the league.

"Ben remembered me from my basketball days at Tech when he was refereeing. He got so he was stealing my signs and letting the batter know what I was going to throw. I don't know how he did it. We never figured it out. There's no doubt, he's the best bench jockey in the league."

Herb St. John To End Career in Jacksonville

By JACK JACKSON

ATHENS, Dec. 23—Herb St. John will close one of the finest careers in Bulldog grid history before home folks next Thursday when the Georgian meets Maryland in Jacksonville's 'Gator Bowl.

St. John, a native of Jacksonville, has been an All-Southeastern Conference choice at guard for three seasons, and has been prominently mentioned for All-America several times. The Gator Bowl tilt will be his third post-season game in a Bulldog uniform. He previously played in the Oil Bowl against Tulsa, and the Sugar Bowl against North Carolina.

A hard blocker, and almost immovable object on defense. He has been a big factor in the Bulldog success during the past three seasons. It's his fourth year on the varsity, since he came to Athens during the war years. Next season, St. John plans to turn pro, and has already been drafted by the Green Bay Packers of the National League.

The Bulldogs scrimmaged long and hard Tuesday in preparation for the Jacksonville tilt.

Gene Lorendo, soph end who understudies Capt. Dan Edwards, drew praise for his pass receiving. Mike Cooley, one of five seniors playing their last game against Maryland, was the defensive star of the scrimmage. But for a bad knee Cooley might have been an all-time great. As it is he's good enough to have run first string for at least two seasons.

Gus Helbovy, freshman right halfback who was injured Monday, looked on in sweat clothes Tuesday, but Trainer Neal Alford reports that his bad knee should come around in time for action on New Year's Day.

The Bulldogs, who have been "officially" working since Friday, will pause Thursday, after a morning session, to hold their annual Christmas dinner at Milledge Annex; after that it'll be strictly business until New Year's night.

Chicago Cards Favored Over Eagles Sunday

CHICAGO, Dec. 23—(AP)—The Chicago Cardinals are rated two-touchdown favorites over the Philadelphia Eagles in their National Football League title clash here Sunday, but some observers are beginning to think the Western Division champions may be "resting" themselves right into a prize upset.

The Cardinals, who defeated the Eagles, 38-21, in exhibition play, and 45-21 in league competition, have been idle two weeks—ever since trimming the Chicago Bears, 30-21, for the Western Crown on Dec. 14. The Eagles saw action last Sunday with a 21-0 playoff decision over the Pittsburgh Steelers for the Eastern title.

Although the layoff permitted some of the injured Cardinals a much-needed mending period, Coach Jimmy Conzelman may encounter a little difficulty in bringing the Chicago eleven back to a keen competitive edge.

Off the records, only overconfidence apparently can whip the Cardinals, who besides dumping the Eagles in their two previous meetings also throttled Philadelphia's heralded running ace, Steve Van Buren. The Golden Boy of the Bayou, the league's record-breaking ground-gainer, has been held to 70 yards by the Cardinals in two games.

Chandler, Feller Top AL Hurlers

By MILTON RICHMAN

NEW YORK, Dec. 23—(UP)—Like the old gray mare, American League pitching in 1947 wasn't what it used to be, but "old-timers" Bob Feller, of the Cleveland Indians, and Spud Chandler, of the New York Yankees, divided whatever honors there were, according to official averages released Tuesday.

Feller was the only pitcher to win 20 games in the circuit, and Chandler's earned run average of 2.46 was the best of any hurler in the league who pitched at least 10 complete games. Rookie Frank (Spec) Shea, of the Yanks, also was a contender for league laurels with a top won-lost percentage of .737, which he accumulated while winning 14 games and losing only five.

Feller, who won 20 and dropped 11 for a .645 percentage—sixth best in the circuit—chalked up his fewest triumphs since 1938. He topped the loop in strikeouts with 196, but it was the first time since 1936 that he failed to fan at least 200 hitters. The Indian ace, however, pitched the most innings, 299, and finished with a 2.68 earned run mark, second best to Chandler.

Chandler, who was idle the last half of the season with a sore arm and won only nine while losing five, copped the earned run title only because Joe Haynes, of the Chicago White Sox, failed to hurl 10 complete games. Haynes actually worked 54 more innings than Chandler and had a 1.94 earned run mark, failing to qualify because of the statistical technicality.

The circuit's "booby prize" was shared by two moundsmen. Edgar Smith, who hurled for Chicago and Boston, had the highest earned run mark, 7.38, while Newhouser, one of the league's leading pitchers during 1946, was charged with the most setbacks, 17.

EVERY PUPPY GIVEN A HOME

Dog Lovers Make Overwhelming Response to Constitution Story

By RUTH STANTON COGILL

The finest Christmas gift that this writer has received was the overwhelming response to last Sunday's Atlanta Constitution story about the Atlanta Humane Society.

By 12 noon that day, every puppy was gone. All of the grown males had homes too, except one, Jock, the black one. He was shy and bewildered. The little canine girls and the big canine girls, that folks are a little skittish about taking sometimes, were ushered out like queens. Some snuggled under lush fur coats, others got the feel of tweed. The little fellow with the broken leg made his departure like a champion. His leg had been set and his new owner was as proud as Punch as he said he'd have his veterinarian carry on. Even the cats muscled in on this lavish, wholesale Christmas adoption.

The Humane Society closes its doors at 6 p. m. but at 8:30 Sunday night, people were still there and the cars continued to roll up. The special delivery letters and long distance calls poured in—the donations piled up—

Monday brought no let-up. The mail was heavy with silver and greenbacks. Folks dropped in to "join up." Another approximately 300 people came and went that day. As new pups came in, there was a scramble to adopt them.

Tuesday's stack of mail was higher. A $10 bill fluttered from the first letter opened. It was a donation "From a Friend." The next produced a dollar from a little girl. And so on. They are in a perfect whirl at the Humane Society. This has never happened before. But they are opening the mail as fast as they can, counting the donations as fast as they can. But, you see, there are so many interruptions. Long distance is calling, somebody must sign for that special delivery, and oh, my goodness, there's another crowd coming in.

But in the face of this unusual activity at the Humane Society, Mrs. Lind, wife of Manager Marshall E. Lind, wrote this letter late at night. It was delivered by messenger.

"Dear Mrs. Cogill:

"Thanks a million for the write-up in The Atlanta Constitution today. It really did touch the hearts of hundreds of dog and cat lovers. I had breakfast at 6:30, then over 300 people came out. I did not get to sit down or eat another bite until after 8:30. Mr. Lind answered the telephone constantly all day. I really am tired tonight but it was worth it, to find homes for all of our puppies, and most of our grown dogs, too.

"I believe that if I had had 300 puppies, we would have found homes for all of them, regardless of sex or breed.

"It does my heart good to know that there are so many dog and cat lovers in the world. I can't begin to count the telephone calls and letters we have had wanting puppies. I wish we had enough puppies for all of them. Many sent in donations because they like dogs but live in apartments where they cannot keep pets.

"Well, here's wishing you, The Atlanta Constitution staff and all dog and cat lovers a very Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

"MRS. MARSHALL E. LIND,
"Atlanta Humane Society,
"981 Howell Mill Rd., N. W."

NOTE: The Atlanta Humane Society had a membership of only 100 at last week's count. An average membership for a city the size of Atlanta should run between 3,000 and 5,000. It costs just $1 to join.

Penn State's Eleven Checks In at Dallas

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

DALLAS, Dec. 23—(AP)—Penn State's massive Nittany Lions rolled into town Tuesday for their New Year's date with Southern Methodist in the Cotton Bowl with Coach Bob Higgins hoping for "a little luck" when his boys battle the Southwest's standard bearers.

Contrary to numerous reports that Higgins had openly expressed confidence that his Lions would lick the Methodists, the veteran coach said, "I hope we can give them a good game."

He declared that he had the best line in his coaching career but that he feared Southern Methodist passing. "Doak Walker will be hard to handle," he said.

There were 40 players in the squad that arrived almost two hours late to be greeted in Western style by Cotton Bowl, city and county officials and civic leaders. With the group was Dean Carl P. Schott, of the Physical Education Department.

The Penn State club met the train at Highland Park station, a Dallas suburb, where Sheriff Steve Guthrie "arrested" the Penn State coaches on warrants charging them with "crossing a State line without a Southern accent." Higgins was taken into Dallas in handcuffs.

Several hundred persons, headed by a high school band, greeted the visitors at the station and put on a round of speech-making.

The squad was whisked out to the Dallas Naval Air Station for a workout Tuesday afternoon. Higgins said there would be two practice sessions daily. "The weather has been very bad at State College," he said. "It has been so cold we couldn't work. The weather here is just right." It was 45 degrees in Dallas.

In a limbering-up drill preceding Tuesday's practice session, co-Captain John Nolan, big tackle, twisted his ankle but Higgins said it was not serious and that the lineman would be all right in a few days.

The Naval Air Station was chosen as headquarters for the visitors because there are two Negroes on the squad. This circumvented the problem of the squad staying at a hotel.

It will be the first bowl game in Texas history for Negroes to participate against a white team.

A number of Negro sports writers and photographers were at the train when Penn State arrived.

Each Penn State player was presented with a 10-gallon hat.

Over 40 Applicants Seek Auburn Post

NEW YORK, Dec. 23—(AP)—At least seven institutions of higher learning were on the lookout Tuesday for head football coaches to fill vacancies created by recent resignations resulting, no doubt, from the unpardonable loss of too many games during the 1947 season.

The latest check discloses that such institutions as the University of Washington, Auburn, Kansas State, West Virginia, Holy Cross, St. Louis University and New Mexico A. and M. have bid boodbye to their gridiron tutors and are shopping for capable successors.

On the other hand, Texas A. and M., Davidson and Furman are not longer in the market.

At Washington, where Ralph (Pest) Welch resigned after serving as head coach since 1942 and a member of the staff since 1930, officials were reported making eyes at such well-situated operators as Don Faurot, of Missouri, Howie Odell of Yale and Bernie Bierman of Minnesota.

Auburn Athletic Director Wilbur Hutsell has had "more than 40" applicants for the position vacated by Carl Voyles, whose contract as head football coach was terminated Dec. 10 by mutual agreement although it was to run to April 15, 1950.

While no announcement is expected until after Jan. 1, those mentioned most prominently for the Auburn job include Henry (Red) Sanders, head coach at Vanderbilt; Norman Cooper, Vanderbilt line coach; Peahead Walker, head coach at Wake Forest, and J. B. (Ears) Whitworth, Georgia line coach.

Some 50 aspirants have applied formally for the West Virginia job vacated by Bill Kern, whose 1947 team made a disappointing finish after winning its first four games.

Blues, Grays Pick Captains

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Dec. 23—(AP)—The South's Head Coach Allyn McKeen said Tuesday Wally Matulich, Mississippi State back injured in Monday's hard scrimmage, probably would be out of the Gray lineup for Saturday's annual North-South grid classic.

McKeen, Mississippi State Mentor, said it looked like Matulich's knee injury would keep him out of the game, but reported that two or three other players who were shaken up in workouts were expected to be in fine shape by game time.

The two squads elected captains and alternatives Tuesday. Lou King, Iowa's left-handed star passer, was chosen captain for the Blue and Frank Pastuck, Cornell center, was named alternate. The South picked Kentucky's Tackle Wash Serini as captain and Vanderbilt End John North was made alternate.

Joe Vitter Signed

Joe Vitter, veteran utility player who was with the Crackers for a brief span this past season, has signed to manage the DeLand Red Hats of the Florida State League next season. Vitter finished the '46 campaign as a DeLand player.

BRANCH SAWED OFF THE LIMB

Walker Trade Could Backfire on Brooklyn

By JACK CUDDY

NEW YORK, Dec. 23—(UP)—Brother Branch Rickey isn't called the shrewdest trader in baseball without reason, but there were reasons to suspect Tuesday that he will rue the day he ever let Dixie Walker go from his Brooklyn Dodgers to the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Dixie, now a creaking oldster of 37 simply didn't fit into the Rickey "youth movement" at Ebbets Field, even though he was by all odds the most popular player on the squad—in fact probably the most popular ever to play in the whacky confines of Flatbush.

The Rickey reluctance to keep Walker around was nothing new. Ever since the bushy-browed Dodger boss transferred to Brooklyn from the St. Louis Cardinals in 1943, he made it plain that Walker was just a "stop-gap" right fielder. An acceptable fill-in who could remain only until some able youngster came along to replace him.

So what happened? Dixie, getting better with the years, became far and away the most dependable hitter in the Dodger ranks. Durable despite a number of injuries which threatened to terminate his career, he played every day and became the "People's Cherce" in Flatbush because of his all-around reliability.

In 1944, hitting an all-time batting peak, he led the National League with an average of .357 and the following season he set the pace for the loop in runs batted in with 124. Last season he was the steadying influence for the younger kids on the Dodger club in their successful drive to the National League pennant and as usual he led the club in runs driven in with 94.

At the start of the campaign, as in other years, Dixie rode the bench while various experiments were conducted in an effort to figure out which one of the youngsters would be an adequate replacement for him. And as always, he moved into the lineup after the kids failed to come through.

But there was a new phase to the story this time. Rickey, calling upon the intuition that told him just when was the best time to unload a star ball player, let him go to the Pirates in a big trade.

Why, through these several years, has Rickey shown such antipathy for such a proven star? First of all, Dixie commanded a fancy salary, second he had managerial aspirations, and third he was a leader among the players None of these fitted in with Rickey's ideas.

However, the Deacon did offer Walker the job of managing the St. Paul, American Association farm club—at a considerably reduced salary, of course. Walker didn't like the idea of that, told Rickey that he thought he had another year of playing usefulness in the majors—perhaps more.

Hence Rickey felt he had no alternative but to send Walker elsewhere. As in dozens of other Rickey deals, it may work out to Brooklyn's benefit. But if Walker, and he'll be gunning for revenge, leads the up-and-coming Pirates to stirring victories before the old faithful fans at Ebbets Field, they will turn against Rickey—not Dixie.

Rickey himself senses that his dealings with the Pirates have made them a dangerous factor in National League reckoning next year and says flatly he isn't selling them any more players, although he might trade.

That pronunciemento may be too late. Dixie may not be the man to lead the Pirates out of the National League wilderness, but he could well be the guy who could knock the Dodgers out of the 1948 pennant. Stranger things have happened in baseball and remember anything can happen in Brooklyn.

Glenn Davis Asks Army for Release

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 23—(AP)—Former All-America football star Glenn Davis disclosed Tuesday he has requested permission to resign from the Army.

The husky, good-looking 25-year-old Californian, one of the most brilliant halfbacks in West Point grid history, said he has made application through customary Army channels "in the same manner as any other officer who desires to be separated from the service."

Davis, visiting his parents on a holiday furlough at near-by Claremont, declined to go beyond a carefully worded statement regarding his move or to discuss what his future plans will be if his plea is approved.

His statement confirmed a statement released earlier Tuesday by the Department of the Army in Washington—a disclosure that apparently surprised Davis in view of the confidential nature of Army regulations.

At the same time, Davis' running mate on West Point's great wartime teams, Felix (Doc) Blanchard, said at Randolph Field, Texas, that he has no intention of leaving the Army.

Davis and Blanchard, both All-America selections in 1944-45-46, were graduated from West Point last Spring with the rank of second lieutenant.

Davis said his application was filed at Fort Riley, Kas., where he was stationed.

"The application, which apparently now is in the hands of authorities in Washington, contains the reasons for my decision," Davis said, and continued:

"I am not at liberty to discuss it further. Any additional information must come from Washington or my commanding general through regular military channels.

"Under present plans, I will return to my assignment with the ground forces at Ft. Benning, Ga., upon completion of my holiday leave."

If released from the Army, Davis in all likelihood will embark on a professional football career with the Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League.

Los Angeles owns the draft rights to the one-time All-Southern California high school hero of Bonita Union High. The Rams obtained first call on Davis, in the event he was ever released from the Army and chose to play pro ball, in a swap with the Detroit Lions. The Los Angeles club, gambling on Davis' future, surrendered its first draft rights to Detroit for the right to claim Davis.

Peerless Ace Plays Here

Blues and Rebs Face Tough Foes At Arena Sunday

After several warm-ups, the Sports Arena Blues and Rebels will settle down against their toughest foes of the season Sunday afternoon on the Arena court.

The unbeaten Rebels will meet the classy Peerless Mills quint from Rossville at 3 o'clock. Thus far this season, the Peerless five has stacked up a record of 18 victories in 19 starts.

Seeking their forty-ninth victory, the Blues will take on the Hanes Hosiery team of Winston-Salem. Hanes, led by Eunice Futch, six-foot four-inch forward, is rated as a threat to snap the Blues' sensational string.

HOSEAH, THE HORSE, WAS A GIFT BUT OWNER FINDS PRICE STIFF

BALTIMORE, Dec. 23—(AP)—The telephone rang one morning 10 days ago for Drusilla Weitzel, 20-year-old secretary at a hospitalization insurance asssociation, and on the wire from Miami was Larry Gotleib, New York racehorse owner.

He made her a present of Hoseah, two-year-old colt quartered at Charles Town, W. Va., after the horse finished fifth in his first start.

Drusilla was overjoyed and went right up to Charles Town.

First she had to pay the jockey $10.50 for his unsuccessful effort aboard Hoseah.

It cost $30.90 to transfer Hoseah to Pimlico.

Hay and oats for Hoseah cost $28 a week at Pimlico, and there is also the matter of three horse blankets. Hoseah likes blankets. Drusilla has now put a stop to this costly habit. No more blankets are left within Hoseah's reach.

Besides standing these incidental expenses, Drusilla has been getting up at 4:45 a. m., daily and taking a street car out to Pimlico to see how Hoseah is getting along. She feeds him a carrot or two and then takes the street car to work.

But Drusilla is undaunted. She plans to transfer Hoseah to Winter quarters where the board bill will be cheaper, hire a trainer, and enter him in one of the first races when Bowie opens March 31. The jock will wear a pink cap.

Region Plan Promotes Georgia Prep Teams

By JESSE OUTLAR

Georgia prep teams will be promoted under the new Regional plan which will be installed next football season. The GIAA, the top-ranking high school association, will be classified AA and other schools will advance in accordance.

Innovation of the Regional setup is not as radical as it may sound on the surface. The two groups formerly known as the NGFA and SGFA, which were recently abolished, will be affected somewhat more than the other loops.

In the GIAA, where the Region method was put into effect this past season, the only change will be the addition of a few new members. These schools have been advanced to the AA bracket due to large enrollment, which is the basis for grading the schools.

Next to the GIAA is the NGIC and this league will undergo little change. While the NGFA and SGFA retired all business and declared their group inactive, the NGIC elected new officers and is carrying on business as usual.

Although final zoning and classification plans haven't been released, it is apparent that the NFGA will undergo the greatest transformation.

Two Regions have been mapped out with Athens, Gainesville, Griffin, R. E. Lee, of Thomaston, LaGrange and Decatur forming one Class A group. Marietta, College Park, Fulton, West Fulton, Rockmart, Calhoun and possibly Hapeville, make up the other Region. Marietta, Decatur and Calhoun are the only newcomers among these former members of the Class B League.

However, Bremen, Canton, Elberton, Newnan, Cedartown, Cartersville, Douglasville, Spalding, Carrollton, Winder and Trion, former member of the North Georgia Association, are classified in the Class B division. But if they desire, these schools may move into Class A competition and participate with former opponents. Cedartown, Elberton, Carrollton and Canton appear the most likely to rejoin the Class A circuit.

The South Georgia Association, formerly a 13-team league, will have six schools in a Class A Region with Moultrie and Glynn Academy joining the GIAA. Albany, Valdosta, Waycross, Cairo, Thomasville and Tifton will make up the A group with Bainbridge, Cordele, Jesup and Fitzgerald in the Class B body. However, Fitzgerald will play in the Class A division. As in the other Regions, all B teams have this alternative.

Very little change will be made in the SWGFA. But in the EGFA, which has 23 members, the teams will be split by the regional plan. Likely this league will be divided into two spearate Regions..

As has been previously announced, this plan will not prevent teams from scheduling games with opponents in a higher bracket.

Most of the titles will be decided by play-offs as has been the custom in past years. In fact, the overall plan will be conducted much on the order of the GIAA this year.

These zones do not pertain to any sport other than football except in the GIAA. However, Sam Burke, State Athletic Director and coaches over the State are considering a similar set-up for basketball.

A complete list of team classifications and zones will be released from Burke's office in the near future.

All Grain Prices Slip Lower in Slow Trading

CHICAGO, Dec. 23—(AP)—Grain futures followed an uncertain course at the Board of Trade today and finished generally lower than the previous close.

At the opening traders heard that the Production and Marketing Administration was in the market for flour to meet February allocations for export and wheat led an advance that carried prices in that pit to more than two cents above the previous close.

The advance was not well sustained, however, and soon some traders who had been on the buying side earlier were selling.

At the close wheat was unchanged to ¾ lower than the previous finish, May $2.96-2.95¾. Corn was ½ to 2½ lower, May $2.54-2.53½, and oats were ½ higher to 1½ lower, May $1.16¾-⅞.

After corn had registered gains of about 1½ cents the market settled back under small liquidation. The trading basis of the spot market was about unchanged during the greater part of the session and bookings on a to-arrive basis were placed at 35,000 bushels.

Pit traders showed an inclination to back away from offerings until the outcome of a meeting between distillers and Department of Agriculture officials is known. The voluntary holiday, which distillers agreed to at the request of the Government, terminates at midnight tomorrow.

The five-day weather forecast promised generally fair weather and somewhat warmer in the Southwest, and the average temperature over the crop area will be near normal to as much as 10 degrees above.

Foreign reports said that European crops are going into the Winter season under conditions improved over a year ago.

The soybean market was dull and finished 2 cents under the previous close, March $3.98.

Lard suffered a setback part way through the session, the result of disappointing purchases by the Government, and finished 40 to 50 cents a hundredweight lower than the previous close, January $26.05.

Union Bag Reports 60-Million Sales

SAVANNAH, Dec. 23—(AP)—Sixty million dollars in sales were recorded last year by the Union Bag and Paper Corporation, Alexander Calber, of New York, told the Savannah Rotary Club Monday. Average annual payroll of the Company, Calder said, is $8,000,000. The firm has a huge plant here.

Rails, Oils, Steels Forge Ahead as Pivotals Falter

NEW YORK, Dec. 23—(AP)—Rails steamed to the fore in today's stock market, with selected oils, steels and industrials negotiating recoveries although many pivotals failed to make the grade.

Dealings, active at intervals, speeded up in the final hour and favorites closed at or about the day's best with gains generally ranging from fractions to 2 points with a few wider jumpers in evidence. Volume crossed the million-mark for the eighth successful session with transfers totaling 1,360,000 shares.

Repurchasing by those who had sold for tax purposes provided an important prop. Buying also was attributed to the belief the market was considerably behind booming business. Some professionals, however, continued to cash profits on the idea the usual December rally may have already been witnessed in the past two weeks' substantial upswing. Skeptics regarding domestic economics and foreign affairs held aloof or trimmed accounts. Carriers again benefited from prospects for freight rate boosts and expanding income. Mounting prices and demand still were a stimulant for issues of petroleum producers.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was up .5 of a point at 65.6, a top since Oct. 29, with the rails ahead a full point and only .8 under their peak for the year reached in February. It was another broad market, 1,070 shares registering. Of these, 414 rose and 412 fell.

The bond market followed an irregular price pattern today. Changes for the most part were fractional on both sides and volume was light. Bids for Italian bonds, readmitted to the Stock and Curb exchanges today after a six-year absence, rose rapidly, but owners of the issues refused to be tempted into selling. The bids not only advanced but were far above levels at which the sales were last made in 1941.

The issues included Italian Government Bonds as well as obligations of utility and industrial concerns, and municipal loans. Dealings in the bond were suspended after entry of the United States into the war.

In the Curb Thor Corporation was off a shade despite a raised disbursement and a stock dividend. Forward leaners were Humble Oil, American Republics, United Republics, United Light and Ashland Oil. Stumblers were Elliott Company, Glen Alden Coal, Pepperell and Babcock & Wilcox.

N.O. Cotton Advances In Quiet Trading

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 23—(AP) Cotton futures advanced here today on trade buying and short covering. Closing prices were steady 25 cents to 65 cents a bale higher.

A holiday feeling prevailed throughout the session and it was the quietest day in several months. Early in the dealings scattered hedge selling caused minor recessions, but later a small demand easily put prices higher. Dull conditions in both the textile and spot markets had their effect.

Profit-Taking Holds N. Y. Cotton Static

NEW YORK, Dec. 23—(AP)—Cotton futures closed unchanged to 40 cents a bale higher today. Trading was slow and reflected pre-holiday influence. Scattered hedging caused initial weakness, and the market thereafter moved up about $1 a bale from the lows of the day as light mill buying and short covering met only limited offerings. The best levels were pared moderately at the close on profit-taking.

Lack of interest in textile and spot markets and the uncertain future for the Marshall Plan, which was an important bearing on the cotton export outlook, accounted for dullness in futures.

Okayed Grady Budget Calls for $2,374,000

Operation of Grady Hospital will require $2,374,000 in 1948 under a budget approved Tuesday night by the Fulton-DeKalb County Hospital Authority. The over-all 1948 budget is only $13,000 more than was expended in 1947, but many of the items were revised to absorb increased cost of supplies and labor.

Meeting at Grady, Authority members reviewed accomplishments of the current year and pointed towards early creation of an endowment trust to expedite construction of a new Grady Hospital. Prewar estimates for the new structure were $5,000,000, but the figure is now set at from $15,000,000 to $20,000,000. Since the Authority is convinced it cannot finance more than $5,000,000 of the cost, it will attempt to raise other funds to match probable federal grants to build an adequate and modern hospital.

Fulton and DeKalb Counties levied a special five-mill tax to finance Grady's operations for 1947. Indications are that the levy will remain unchanged for the new year. Of the total estimated cost of operating the hospital next year, Fulton County will supply $2,164,000, DeKalb $150,000 and another $60,000 will be added by fees collected for services.

Hughes Spalding, Authority Chairman, presented all members with beautiful gold wrist watches as a memorial to the late Walter Rich, who served as a member of the group until his death, November 3.

Board members presented Spalding a gold combination desk clock, barometer, and thermometer in a ceremony at which Morgan Blake was spokesman for the group.

Reports were featured by the Buildings and Grounds Committee which pointed to the fact that the Authority purchased both the Negro and white nurses' homes from the Federal Government and purchased from Emory University two blocks of property on which to construct the new hospital at a cost of $267,930.

Sam Rothberg, who succeeded Rich as a member of the Board, will be host at the annual meeting Jan. 28 at the Standard Club. Wives of members also have been invited to attend a diner which will follow the business sesion.

Board members attended the annual Christmas party given to Negro employees on the hospital staff after they completed the business. Santa visited the employees and an entertainment program was presented by some of the workers.

Truman To Explain Decision On 'Quickie' Price-Curb Bill

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23—(UP)—President Truman will make a statement to the country when he decides what to do with the Republican-sponsored stop-gap anti-inflation plan, the White House disclosed Tuesday.

He has until midnight Dec. 31 to sign or veto the bill, which the GOP adopted as a "quickie" answer to his demands for emergency price and rationing powers to combat high prices.

Sen. Harley M. Kilgore, Democrat, West Virginia, told newsmen after a White House conference Tuesday that he believed Mr. Truman will sign it—with an accompanying "blast" at the Republicans for ignoring most major provisions to his original program. Presidential Press Secretary Ross confirmed that Mr. Truman will issue a statement explaining whatever action he decides to take.

News that the chief executive is getting ready for another verbal tilt with the GOP on the politically-hot cost of living issue came as Government economists reported new post-war peaks in production, prices and wages.

There were these developments:

1. The Federal Reserve Board announced that industrial production in November rose two points above October to 192 percent of the 1935-39 average. Steel output hit new highs early in December after a slight decline the preceding month. Machinery, transportation equipment and metal-fabricating industries also showed expanded production.

2. The Commerce Department said in its monthly business review that increased employment and higher wages brought personal income to a new high of $202,000,000,000 at the end of October—a gain of $3,000,000,000 over September.

Commerce experts reported that employment in non-farm jobs in October stayed above 50,500,000, a gain of nearly 2,000,000 over a year ago.

Building activity continued at near peak levels, the Commerce survey showed. Work on homes during November was $10,000,000 higher than in October, and the number of new homes started last month was 82,000.

The Federal Reserve Board reported that automobile production was up, although truck production was curtailed in November and early this month because of model change-overs. Output of lumber and construction materials was in "large volume" last month, the Board said.

Department store sales were at a new high of 300 percent of the 1935-1939 average and for the first two weeks of December were eight percent above last year. This compares with 275 in October and 291 in September.

Construction was "substantially" above last year and, while the number of new homes started declined from 94,000 in October to 82,000 in November, the Commerce Department pointed out that this was above the seasonal decline.

Prices paid by consumers rose but the Board reported food prices showed "little change."

Wholesale commodity prices continued to rise last month and in the first two weeks of December.

French Told 'Buy Bonds or Pay High Tax'

PARIS, Dec. 23—(AP)—The National Assembly, approving an important section of the new French "austerity program," Friday night enacted a bill requiring Frenchmen to purchase 130,000,000,000 frances ($1,092,000,000) worth of Government bonds or pay the same amount in taxes.

The bill is designed to drain off surplus purchasing power.

By a 300 to 268 vote, deputies approved a bill to raise the sum which will be used entirely for reconstruction. The sliding-scale levy will be made against taxpayers with annual incomes over 450,000 francs ($3,780).

The Assembly also approved an amendment eliminating the positions of 150,000 public jobholders. The Communists voted against it. This amendment was offered by former Finance Minister Rene Pleven who said the present figure of about 1,000,000 civil servants should be reduced to the 1938 level of 750,000. Most of the jobs to be eliminated are in the great nationalized industries like the power network.

Mayer's "austerity program" for France also includes increased taxes on radios, tobacco, alcohol, spices, precious metals and other luxury consumer goods.

There will be a special 400,000 franc ($3,300) annual levy on night clubs and no new spots may be opened after Jan. 1.

The bill enacted tonight bore the title of an "Exceptional Levy in the Struggle Against Inflation."

List of Official Traders Easy To Get--Stassen

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23—(AP)—Harold E. Stassen declared Tuesday that the Government could say "in 10 minutes" whether present and former office-holders, including White House officials, made speculative profits on the commodity markets from inside information.

The former Minnesota Governor, an active candidate for the Republican Presidential nomination, said in a statement that the people would insist on specific answers to five questions he posed about Government "insiders" and "will not be fooled by a shower of irrevelant statistics."

He referred to a list of 711 big traders made public yesterday by Secretary of Agriculture Anderson in accordance with a Congressional resolution. The names were forerunners of a group expected to total 14,000.

The only Government official on the list was Edwin W. Pauley, Special Assistant to Secretary of the Army Royall.

Here are Stassen's questions, which he said could be "answered in 10 minutes time from reports which the Government has had in its possession for months:"

"1. In addition to Mr. Pauley, were there other present and former officials of the Government, including the Executive Department of the White House, in the commodity markets prior to the unusually heavy Governmental purchases of February and March, 1947, and did they make a huge profit at the steep climb of prices which followed the Governmental buying?

"2. In addition to Mr. Pauley, were there other present and former officials of the Government in the market in advance of the heavy Governmental buying of September, 1947, and did they make a large profit in the rapid increase of prices which followed?

"3. Did most of these insiders keep their holdings for months in an endeavor to shift to capital gains and avoid paying income taxes on their profits, and did this have an effect similar to hoarding of commodities?

"4. Did Mr. Pauley engage in extensive activities in the commodity market in 1947 in addition to those which he admitted to the Senate Committee?

"5. Were almost all of these transactions of insiders on the long side profiting by increased prices and contributing to an excessive raise in food prices in 1947?"

BUSHEL OF DOLLARS—That's what Patrolman M. T. Maddox, right, received from grateful merchants at Little Five Points. Merchants raised $206 to say "Merry Christmas" to "our favorite policeman," who has been untangling traffic there for 15 years. Lt. J. F. Brown, Maddox's superior officer, presents the gift here as donors look on.

Little Five Points Officer Charged With Good Service

By MARJORY SMITH

Little Five Points preferred charges against its favorite policeman Tuesday.

More than 100 merchants—some of whom have watched Patrolman M. T. Maddox untangle traffic at the same spot for 15 years—yanked their cop off his beat and hailed him before his superior officer, Lt. J. F. Brown.

In front of a Christmas tree "bar" at the Bank of Atlanta, they read off a list of "serious charges" against the 54-year-old policeman.

Lt. Brown decided his subordinate should plead guilty to a 10-count indictment, alleging long service, kindness and courtesy, and a record which included the fact that no child at Maddox's school crossing has been killed or injured in 15 years.

Lamar Martin, Little Five Points dry-cleaner, spokesmen for merchants in the community, further alleged Maddox "must be cahoots with the advertising department of The Atlanta Constitution, because every morning he directs traffic with a rolled-up copy of The Constitution!"

Most heinous offense, the merchants declared, was the fact that not one person could be found in all Little Five Points who didn't like their policeman.

"We're afraid of a major crime wave in our section," D. W. Lyons, appliance company executive, testified. "People will be parking at fire plugs and intersections just to get tickets with his autograph!"

So they passed sentence on Patrolman Maddox—and presented him with a bushel-basket of one-dollar bills.

"We got together and decided we wanted to find a concrete way of saying 'Merry Christmas' to our favorite policeman," Martin explained. "The merchants of this section appreciate the fact that we have the best all-around policeman in Atlanta."

Maddox, who joined the Atlanta police force in January, 1924, is scheduled to retire next year. The veteran patrolman already holds a meritorious service sitation for a 1931 capture of service station thieves. Last week grateful students at Moreland Avenue School presented a watch to "our policeman."

In the World of Business

REAL ESTATE—Wister A. Sharp and G. M. Stout, both well-known Atlanta real estate men, have been admitted to the Institute of Real Estate Management, Durand Taylor, New York President of the Institute, said Saturday. The Institute, which is an affiliate organization of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, also admitted 39 other new members from 15 States and the District of Columbia. The Atlanta men qualified for membership in the organization after they passed a written examination.

DIVIDEND—The Selig Company Tuesday announced through its President, Albert Selig, a dividend of $3 a share on 18,000 shares of comon stock, in addition to its regular quarterly dividend of $2 a share on preferred stock.

The Police Blotter

SHORT NAP COSTLY—Mrs. Elizabeth Ramsey, of Panama City, Fla., Tuesday was "cured" of taking cat-naps in bus stations. She told Atlanta police that when she arrived at the Atlanta bus station, tired from a long journey, she dropped off to sleep in the ladies' lounge. After a short nap she awakened to find that her suitcase, containing clothing valued at $100, had been stolen.

POLICEMEN AND ELEPHANTS—Policemen, like elephants, never forget. At least that is the impression gained Tuesday by J. T. Maddox, Negro of the rear of 47 Capitol Ave., S. E., and Nathaniel Bates, of the rear of 293 Memorial Dr., S. E. The two Negroes were apprehended by Patrolmen Harry McCollister and R. A. Boone as they cruised on Clark Street near Fraser Street. The officers explained that they recognized the Negroes as ones they had arrested previously on a whiskey charge. After a search of the Negro's car, McCollister and Boone booked them again on the same charge—disorderly conduct—whiskey.

SOME FRIENDS—Paul Hosch, of 1129 Sylvan Ave., S. W., Tuesday was disgusted with hospitality. He told Atlanta police that when he invited three new acquaintances to his office, at 88 Pryor St., S. W., they beat him up and robbed him. Hosch told police the men were "real friendly" until he brought them to his office.

HARD ON SANTA—Automobile looters Tuesday continued to make things hard for Santa Claus, police reported. J. L. Crow, of 303 Marietta St., N. W., reported that thieves broke into his auto and removed $50 in clothing which he had purchased for Christmas presents. George Spier, of 533 Crew St., S. W., said thieves took a waffle iron and several toys from his car which was parked at Georgia Avenue and Fraser Street.

ACTIVE BURGLARS—Despite a considerable amount of activity during the wee hours Tuesday morning, burglars in Atlanta had little to show for their efforts. In one instance, police reported, burglars who entered the Lee Candy Company, 130 Boulevard, N. E., failed to get anything. At the Piedmont Cleaners, 923 Oak St., S. W., prowlers got only $18 in cash. . . . Burglars who broke into the National Life and Accident Insurance Company, 630 Lee St., S. W., were forced to take the office safe in order to get $100 which was locked inside. . . . The Famous Cafe, 399 W. Peachtree St., N. W., reported $55 in small change taken by burglars who broke into the place early Tuesday.

TO MAKE LIFE EASIER—After more than 40 years of service as Negro matron at the Atlanta jail, Eliza Baldwin is going to retire Jan. 1. And, to make the veteran city employee's life just a little more comfortable after that date, members of the station house staff Tuesday night presented her with a large, overstuffed easy chair. Fellow workers also gave the aged Negro woman a new pocket book stuffed with 50 one dollar bills, and a large quantity of fruit and candy.

CHILD INJURED—Billy Kethley, 9, of 514 Ponce de Leon Pl., Decatur, was admitted to Emory University Hospital Tuesday with cuts and bruises. Decatur police reports said Billy was riding on a flat wagon, crossing Court Square, when he was hit by an automobile driven by Lucas Carol Merritt, of 642 Parkway Dr., Atlanta. Merritt has been charged with recklessness driving and accident, and violation of traffic ordinances.

GAS COMPANY

lanta Gas Light Company has 802,553 shares of common stock, which has voting control; 20,000 shares of four and one-half percent preferred stock, as yet unissued; and $7,015,000 is three percent first mortgage bonds.

Georgia ownership of 38 percent of the common stock means that Georgians already have control of 304,970 shares. "The latest reports indicate there are about 900 Georgia stockholders of this Company.

The Atlanta Gas Light Company has declared a dividend of 60 cents per share for the last half of 1947. This compares with 56½ cents a share for the last half of 1946.

Taber made his revelation concerning the new Company set-up in a statement in which he accepted an order issued Monday by the Georgia Public Service Commission requiring the Company to reduce its rates so as to save its residential consumers $276,000 a year.

The PSC order also required the Company to refund $98,000 to commercial and industrial consumers under a special interruptible gas service rate. In the PSC hearings, the Company protested the proposed refunds for this service.

Concerning the order, Taber said:

"The above reductions are in addition to a reduction of $375,000 made in 1945 and an additional reduction of $734,000 made effective in January of this year. . . . During the year just past we had a construction budget of $3,200,000 and of that amount will actually spend about $2,800,000. The only reason for not spending the entire budget was due to material shortages. Since 1944, our annual payroll jumped from $1,287,000 to $2,620,000 as of October, 1947, and everyone is familiar with the rise in material costs."

Atlanta Gas Light Company has contracted with the Southern Natural Gas Company to supply it with 200,000,000 cubic feet of gas per day by the end of 1948.

Taber said the complaints of commercial users of gas arose out of the inability of the Company to obtain the gas from Southern Natural Gas as well as its inability to obtain the necessary materials for expansion.

Street Car Mishap Detains Decaturites

Homeward-bound Decaturites were delayed more than an hour Tuesday afternoon when a street car on the main Decatur line jumped the track at the Howard Street crossing in Decatur.

Gasoline busses were placed in service between Atlanta and Decatur until trolley service was restored.

ICC Grants 25 Pct. Mail Hauling Hike

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23—(AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission Tuesday granted the railroads a 25 percent increase in pay for carrying mail.

The increase is retroactive to Feb. 19, 1947, when 204 mail-carrying railroads petitioned for an increase of 45 percent.

The 25 percent increase will remain in effect until the ICC has acted finally on the 45 percent request.

The ICC held the present rates of compensation for the transportation of mail to be "not fair and reasonable."

The increase in mail revenue is estimated at $32,250,000 a year, based on the total mail revenues of $129,000,000 reported by the Class 1 railroads for 1946 and at about $34,500,000 a year based on the total estimated revenue of $138,030,000 for 1947.

Plan Pipe Line Extension in State, Southeast

The Plantation Pipe Line Company is considering plans for doubling its operations in Georgia and the Southeast, it was learned Tuesday.

The line, now running from Baton Rouge, La., to Greensboro, N. C., with Bremen, Ga., as its chief terminal, is currently pumping 100,000 barrels of gasoline and fuel oil daily, it was learned. While this capacity beats the wartime load it is still far short of the consumer demand.

A meeting of plantation officials will be held in Atlanta sometime in January to discuss expansion plans, it was learned.

One possibility which has been considered is the laying of another 12-inch line from Baton Rouge to Bremen, thus doubling the operations between those two points.

This move would entail the erection of additional huge storage tanks at Bremen and make that station one of the largest oil installation centers of the world.

Plantation's 12-inch line now ends at Bremen, but the line continues on in 10-inch capacity to Greensboro. And from this point, spurs also go North and South.

An eight-inch spur runs from Bremen to Chattanooga and Knoxville. A four-inch spur runs from Bremen to Macon and Columbus.

McPherson Santa Arrives in Jeep

Santa Claus traded his reindeer for an Army jeep and arrived at Fort McPherson Tuesday. Over 500 children of Third Army and Fort McPherson personnel met him at the Service Club just inside the Fort's main gate.

With Military Police sirens on his jeep going full blast old St. Nick jeeped right up to the front door of the Service Club and piled out with a merry "Ho! Ho! Ho!" Once inside the Club Santa posted himself by a large Christmas tree, issued orders to his many young helpers and distributed gifts.

Man, 34, Dies In Crash; Car Reported Stolen

A 34-year-old East Point man was killed instantly Tuesday near LaGrange less than four hours after the car he was driving was reported stolen in Atlanta, according to the State Patrol.

Trooper H. H. Malone, of the Patrol Headquarters, in LaGrange, identified the man as Carl V. Smallwood, of 765 Jefferson Ave., East Point. Trooper Malone said the car driven by Smallwood crashed into a power pole five miles North of LaGrange, demolishing the car.

The automobile, a new Buick, was reported stolen from a Whitehall Street parking lot shortly after 10 a. m. Tuesday. Parking lot employees found the car missing after its owner, Mrs. Paul Sewell, of 752 Elkmont Dr., N. E., requested that the car be washed.

Mrs. Sewell told Atlanta police she got the car only last week after she had waited more than a year and a half for it.

Aid Bill Is Signed By Truman

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23—(AP)—President Truman Tuesday signed legislation appropriating $522,000,000 in emergency Winter aid to France, Italy and Austria, and the State Department made haste to get the program rolling.

Officials of the Department said they hope to conclude individual agreements with the three nations in the next few days even if some details have to be worked out later.

The fund was contained in a $914,286,500 appropriation bill, which cleared Congress in the closing hours of the special session. The bill also provides $18,000,000 in aid for China, $340,000,000 for military occupation costs abroad, $32,011,000 for reclamation projects in this country and smaller miscellaneous sums.

Negotiations over use of the American relief funds in the three European countries already have started.

A Merry Christmas and the happiest 1948

No matter how much Christmas is commercialized, the true meaning of it will always stand out as something fine, because it celebrates the birth of Jesus Christ.

Let's hope that the next year, 1948, will bring us a great stride toward the principles of kindness and consideration that He showed to us as the best way to be happy in this life.

MISS JANET CHEVES, LEFT, AND MISS RUTH JOHNSON

Misses Cheves and Johnson Presented at Debut Reception

At a lovely afternoon reception held yesterday, Mrs. Thomas X. Cheves and Mrs. Henry C. Johnson presented their debutante daughters, Miss Janet Cheves and Miss Ruth Johnson, to fashionable Atlanta society. The affair was held in the library of the Capital City Club between the hours of 4 and 6 o'clock.

The debutantes and their mothers received before the fireplace which was banked with ferns and palms and surrounded by baskets of flowers. The mantel, which carried out the charming color scheme of pink and white, was adorned with an artistic long, low arrangement of pink poinsettias in the center, and pale pink candles at either end.

Miss Cheves, a pretty brownette, wore a becoming buffant gown of white satin fashioned with a bertha and a fitted bodice, the full skirt featuring a bustle and extending into a slight train. She wore an exquisite pearl lavalier and carried a shirred satin muff showered with pink butterfly orchids. Mrs. Cheves was attractively gowned in silver pink crepe, worn with a rhinestone clip and earrings. Her flowers were lavender orchids.

Miss Johnson's Blonde beauty was offset by a white moire taffeta gown fashioned with an off-the-shoulder neckline, and a full skirt featuring circles of silver beading around fluffy wheels of moire. She, too, carried a muff of shirred white satin, showered with pink butterfly orchids. Mrs. Johnson was becomingly gowned in aqua crepe trimmed with gold beads, and she wore lavender orchids.

The beautifully decorated tea table in the center of the room was covered with a shell pink satin cloth. The centerpiece was a beautiful antique silver epergne filled with pink carnations and purple violets. Silver candlebra holding pale pink tapers graced either end of the table. Large baskets of pink poinsettias graced smaller tables placed before the windows.

Assisting in entertaining were Mesdames Nellie G. Cheves, G. X. Cheves, Cheves O'Neil, James P. Cheves, C. D. LeBey, Earl Vance, of Gainesville; Russell Beutell, Mrs. C. M. Oakey, Toxey Whitaker, W. C. Adamson, R. Q. Sanders, the Misses Judy Sanders, Phyllis Simms, Barbera Osborne, Bootsie Stafford, and Elizabeth Cheves.

SALLY FORTH Says:

Son Plays Santa Claus--- Gives Mother Car for Xmas

Little did Mrs. W. M. Jenkins suspect that the keys she found in the silver box wrapped in tissue paper and tied with red ribbons unlocked the Christmas gift from William K. Jenkins, her only son. After she asked him what to do with the keys at the luncheon he gave for her at the Georgian Terrace, he led her to the window overlooking Ponce de Leon Avenue. He told her to look across the street at the parking lot where stood a shiny blue sedan.

A big bow of red satin ribbon decorated the hood, and the chauffeur stood beside the car ready to take his seat at the wheel whenever Mrs. Jenkins was ready to go home. Her excitement and appreciation was a joy to behold! She invited everybody to take a ride with her out Peachtree Road after the party was over.

As Bill Jenkins, a yachtsman by preference, is the skipper of the Willie Kaye, II, the Carolina Yacht Club flag along with the Georgia flag figured prominently in the decorations. An arrangement of holly and nandina berries graced the center of the buffet table. Coffee was poured from the handsome silver coffee pot won before the War Between the States by James Owen for raising the finest wheat crop in Chipley. Mr. Owen was the father of Mrs. Jenkins, and Bill's grandfather. Kate (Mrs. John) Stembler received a silver wine cooler and two bottles of champagne as a Christmas present from the genial host, her father. "Merry Christmas" was toasted in champagne and guests ate the delicious fruit cake baked by Mrs. Jenkins, from a Kentucky recipe, given her by the late Mrs. John A. Miller, grandmother of Mrs. William C. Wardlaw, Jr.

Hume Baby To Be Christened

Little Virginia Elizabeth Hume, cunning daughter of Hampton, Jr., and Virginia (Wright) Hume, will be christened Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Cathedral of St. Philip. Dean John Walthour will officiate.

Loiette Hume and Mrs. Lewis Kirby, of West Point, will be godmothers for their niece. The godfather will be Eben Wortham, of Nashville, Tenn., the baby's uncle. Virginia will wear a handmade gown of batiste, trimmed with real lace and embroidered yoke. It was made by Mrs. Foster Hume, Jr., grandmother of the baby. Virginia is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Wright and Mr. and Mrs. Foster Hume, Jr., and the great-granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Foster Hume, Sr., and Mrs. O. H. Wright.

To Attend Florida Debut

Jane Schneider, who attends the University of Georgia. arrived Saturday to spend a few days at home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh J. Schneider, before leaving for Florida.

She and her brother, Hugh, depart today for St. Petersburg, where they will attend the debut of June Bassett at the Yacht Club on Friday evening.

After a week of good times together, Jane and June will join several of their Tri Delta sorority sisters in Jacksonville and attend the 'Gator Bowl game.

Wears Grandmother's Wedding Gown

When Marguerite Bassett, of Fort Valley, became the bride of Frank Harrison, of Washington, D. C., recently at St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, she wore the exquisite pearl-embroidered satin dress worn 65 years ago by her grandmother, Maud Brown, of Morgan County, when she became the bride of Stephen Bassett, of Fort Valley.

Marguerite is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph R. Bassett. Another bit of sentiment about her wedding was that the groom's grandfather, George Harrison, a native of England, built by hand the altar in the church before which they took their marriage vows.

After their wedding trip, the couple will reside in Alexandria, Va.

Josie Was Not Joking

By DORIS LOCKERMAN,
Woman's News Editor

When Josie married the Tommy Manville of a suburban community, her friends made sympathetic clucking noises with their tongues like mother hens.

"It's just too bad a nice girl like Josie threw herself away on a rake like Tom," they agreed. It just couldn't last. Tom had married two well-reared girls of fine families and they could do nothing with him. He was the type that simply could not resist the arch look or purring flattery. He was a typical traveling man of legend, only he did not travel widely. He covered the city and the other suburban communities thoroughly. That is why first Grace, then Mildred, let him go, and went home to their parents.

One day at the sewing circle, one of the ladies who had clucked when Josie got married suddenly realized it was 10 years since the "tragedy" had come into Josie's life.

"Wonder how she has kept him interested this long . . . you know Josie isn't the glamorous type . . . her hats, for one thing, always look so funny . . . and her hair never is caught up in the back."

They just couldn't stand it long. One of them after a long preamble having tea alone at Josie's home finally asked her how she managed Tom so well.

"It was easy," Josie said. "He's really a good boy, after all, and so sweet. I found out he liked to drive the car with the window down on his side Winter and Summer, so I just let him. It blows my hair every which way, but it makes him happy, so . . ."

And when the other girls heard of it they thought Josie must be joking.

Choose the Busiest Women

When Mayor Hartsfield needed a leader for the Woman's Day portion of the Freedom Train's visit here New Year's Day, he chose the busiest one in town.

And of course the job is done.

Mrs. Robert H. Jones, Jr., president of this and that, took over the general chairmanship, and within a week 302 women's clubs in Greater Atlanta had agreed not only to participate in Woman's Day itself, but to salute America's heritage in programs throughout the entire month.

Writing . . . Work?

Harnett T. Kane, the New Orleans author whose current "Natchez on the Mississippi" has already hit the national best-seller list, loses a pound a day on his autographing tours.

"But," he wrote this week, "as you may remember, on me, those lost pounds look good."

Kane added a dubious commentary on the public respect for the writing business.

"Woman came up to me and asked, 'When do you do all your writing?' I replied: "I'm up at 7 a. m. and I'm working at 8 a. m. and work on through the whole day."

"She blinked. 'If you work that hard,' she said, 'when do you get time to do your writing?'"

Your Mind's Mirror

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Question: Are most people afraid to be "different?"

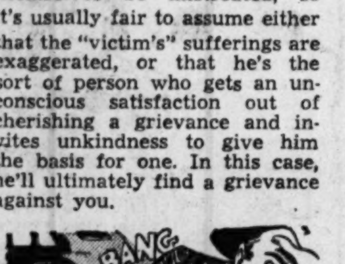
Answer: Most of us have mixed feelings about it. We want to be different so as to assert our individuality, but don't dare be too much so for fear of losing the approval of our neighbors. A woman, for instance, tries to find a hat that is "exclusive," but you couldn't make her wear one that was "out of fashion." As Dr. S. Harvard Kaufman puts it: "The need to be different is paramount, yet to be one of a homogeneous group where difference is permitted is the goal of emotional and social maturation."

Question: Is it natural to be a favorite child?

Answer: It's not only natural but inevitable, even though a child who feels himself being supplanted in his parents' favor may try to console himself by claiming he "does not care." Memories of being compelled to share our parents—and especially our mothers—are what makes most of us, when we grow up, so insistent upon being absolutely first in the affections of our wives or husbands. And the more painful these memories, the more jealous we will be of a mate's interest, even in old friends of his or her own sex.

Question: Should you marry a chronic complainer?

Answer: You could hardly make a worse choice, no matter how plausible a story he (or she) may tell of abuse and unfair treatment. Few adults, at least, have to go on letting themselves be mistreated, so it's usually fair to assume either that the "victim's" sufferings are exaggerated, or that he's the sort of person who gets an unconscious satisfaction out of cherishing a grievance and invites unkindness to give him the basis for one. In this case, he'll ultimately find a grievance against you.



Question: Are "combat neurosis" the hardest to cure?

Answer: No, says Dr. Maurice H. Greenhill, of Duke University. The least hopeful cases among veterans with neuropsychiatric illness are those of men who were never under fire. True, men who saw combat duty have severer symptoms, both while they are still in service and immediately after discharge. But these men tend to get better with time, while noncombatants who develop a neurosis while in service do not. They were actually or potentially neurotic to begin with, and no longer can conceal it.

CHEF'S SALAD

Salad greens, tomatoes cut in eights, matchstick slices of mild American cheese, green olives and anchovies make a good combination for a chef's salad.

Everybody's Happy

MORE BLESSED TO GIVE---

Clover Club Presents Radio to Eventide

By LENNA McKINLEY

Six little girls who call themselves the Four Leaf Clover Club have already learned what many grown-ups never realize—that "it is more blessed to give than to receive."

Sunday afternoon Julia McCullough, Caroline Sauls, Missie Cardwell, Wickie Oliver, Cora Player and Katherine Turner went out to Eventide, Atlanta's home for old ladies, where they presented to the 80-odd residents at that old-age haven a handsome combination radio and automatic record player, together with a collection of records including all the Strauss waltzes and the familiar Christmas carols.

The ladies at the Home were happy, but those 11-year-old girls were happier. They had earned every penny of the money with which they had purchased their love gift. And it had taken them a whole year to earn it.

All of the members of the Four Leaf Clover Club have been friends since they were kindergarten age. They have met at one home or the other for years, to play and to plan occasional parties.

Two years ago one of the girls said, "Let's quit playing and going to parties. Why not organize a club and do something to make someone else happy?" And that's how the Clover Leaf Club came into being.

It was a year ago that the girls decided upon their project for the ladies at Eventide. A radio-record player would be just the thing to give them cheer, it was agreed. But that would cost lots of money, and they must find a way to earn it.

Calling their mothers in for a conference, they begged for suggestions. "Why not make attractive gifts for children and things for the home?" one mother suggested. "Then you can plan a bazaar, just before Christmas. We mothers will help you with that."

The girls immediately set to work, gathering once a week to apply their talents at creating simple little toys, designing stenciled mats, weaving breakfast sets, decorating covered match boxes, whipping up laced trimmed panties. All Girl Scouts, they utilized their craft training to make many an attractive, useful item.

Last week they held their bazaar at the home of Mrs. Phinizy Calhoun, grandmother of Missie Cardwell. True to their promise, their mothers helped them to plan the affair and spent hours on the telephone to make sure that the girls would have customers for their handiwork. When the last item was sold, and the money was counted, the Four Leaf Clover Club found that there was plenty for the record player, and a small reserve in the treasury to begin next year's work.

Mission accomplished, all members of the club are now happily anticipating their own Christmas. With such a big undertaking, they have had no time for making requests of Santa Claus as to their own wishes. But they are not worried on that score, not at all.

"We've already had more fun than at any Christmas season before," they all agree. "And we've promised our new friends that we will be back next Christmas."

All set for Christmas? Here s a wonderful idea for a hard-to-find gift.

There are 15 different DUBARRY kits from which to choose. The large luxurious travel cases, built on the classic lines of well-bred luggage, taper off to the smallest kit, equipped with lipstick, rouge, face powder, freshener, foundation lotion, skin cream and cleansing cream. There are the Hudnut fragrances, "Violet Sec," nostalgic as a freshet of violets . . . "Gemey," festive as Christmas tree lights, and "Yanky Clover," spicy and fresh. Each of the fragrances has been captured in toilet water, dusting powder, cologne, talcum and sachet as well as perfume. DuBarry Kits range from $7.50 to $75.00. Fragrance sets from $1.50 to $8.00.

DANA does "Tabu," the forbidden fragrance, in three wonderful ways for a gift set —cologne, dusting powder, perfumed French-type soap. The set $4.25, plus tax.

BOURJOIS has done up gifts for everybody from Great-Aunt Emma to your teen-age niece! "Evening in Paris" sets have blossomed out in star-spangled boxes done with silver covers decorated with ribbon bows and in lively colors printed in decorative new pictorial treatments. Their price range, from $1.50 to $25.00.

The same house has brought out a sophisticated grouping for "Mais Oui" sets, in a coy mood befitting the "Mais Oui" fragrance. The largest gift package, a bountiful but graceful oval, is done in quilted satin and ribbons, and costs $17.50. Others range as low as $2.25.

BARBARA GOULD'S new "Skylark" gift sets ring the Christmas bell with a note that is young, lighthearted and blithe. "Skylark," you know, has been made for youth and the set is done up in pastel packages of wonderfully imaginative design. The gift assortments feature everything, including beauty soap and bath bubbles, as well as "Skylark" perfume. Priced from $2.25 to $6.50.

EARLY AMERICAN OLD SPICE and Early American Friendship's Garden packages have become as traditional as mistletoe and holly. They are available in the old classic sets, plus 11 new packages, including the Vanity Box which has a lift-up mirror lid outfitted in cosmetics, and for lagniappe, a red velvet pincushion for jewel pins. There are also the Trunk Box (doubles later for a sewing box), the Homestead Box, as well as a dozen or so fine sets for men. The Deluxe, in Early American Old Spice, retails at $6.00, includes a sturdy mug filled with shaving soap, pottery bottles of bracing after-shave lotion, talcum, cologne and three large cakes of long-lasting bath soap.

Questions and Answers

POLITICAL SCHOOL BOARD

In our city our School Board plans to have dispensing machines installed in nine grade schools so bottles of a kola beverage will always be available to the pupils who have the price. (C. B.)

Answer—And of course the ice cream people, the candy makers, the bakers, the hot dog vendors and others will be invited to set up their stalls and keep their products always available to the pupils who have the price. The School Board members probably would not ask the advice of local physicians or nutrition authorities—when politicians get their hands on the running of the schools they neither want nor take advice from anybody. In my opinion it is harmful to the health and development of a child to indulge in such sweetened, carbonated nerve excitant instead of taking needed food.

OH! MY ACHING BACK

Exercise Aids Muscles

By IDA JEAN KAIN

The day before Christmas . . . and of course you're not going to stop trimming the tree to read about corrective exercises . . . of all things. But later, when you get a chance to glance over the paper, you might be interested in a little word-game psychologists have worked out. Your immediate response to a particular word is supposed to "tell you" about you.

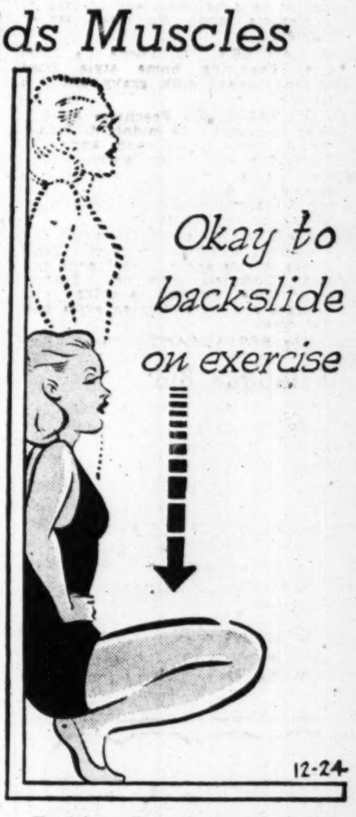
All right—coming at you. Your back! Ache? Sacroiliac! Pain? Well, misery loves company, and you have plenty of it . . . including a lady in Peoria . . .

"I would like to know what exercises would be best for me to take, since I have some lower back weakness. I've taken a good many osteopathic and chiropractic treatments and although the doctors agree exercise would help, they do not tell me what exercises to take. I would like to strengthen my stomach muscles without too much strain on my back, reduce my waistline, and at the same time strengthen my back muscles."

It's a big order. If all this makes your back ache more, curl up in a ball and "rest" your back. Here's how. Lie on your back on the floor—in front of a hearth fire is a nice comfortable place. You don't think of the floor as being comfortable, but it can help take out the ache. Let's see, where were we . . . oh yes, on your back, knees bent. Press the small of your back against the floor to get a good up and in pull with the stomach muscles. Then bring both knees back toward your chest and fold your arms around knees, hugging them to chest. Ah . . that really helps take out the kinks.

If your back feels strained when you lie down with legs straight out, place a rolled-up towel or a tiny pillow under the bend of the knees. That takes any strain off the lower back muscles.

About special exercises. In some cases they help . . . in others they should be avoided. There is a very simple one to strengthen the stomach and back muscles.



Okay to backslide on exercise
12-24

Position: Standing against the wall, heels away from wall.

Movement: Flatten your entire back against the wall . . . and holding it there, slide down the wall. This means pulling times . . . and the last time sit down on floor with the small of your back in contact with the wall. This means pulling up firmly with the lower abdominal muscles and holding this up-pull. Stay there for 5 minutes and do this for two separate five-minute periods daily. It rests your back.

The best present you could give yourself this year would be an anti-backache board. The board is wide and thin and is slipped between the mattress and the springs to prevent the spine from sagging out of line. A bed board has been found so effective in the treatment of back injuries and weak backs that it is included among the routine recommendations of one of our famous hospitals specializing in care of these cases.

Mrs. Brantley To Be Hostess For Historical Society

Mrs. Archibald P. Brantley has been designated official hostess by the Atlanta Historical Society for its Open House at the society's new home, 1753 Peachtree, between 4 and 6 o'clock.

Receiving with Mrs. Brantley will be Mrs. William Perrin Nicolson, Sr., Mrs. George P. Howard, and Mrs. Bates Block.

Assisting will be Mr. and Mrs. Hughes Spalding, Mrs. John S. Spalding, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Maddox, Mr. and Mrs. Walter McElreath, Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Alexander, Dr. and Mrs. Frank K. Boland, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Mitchell, Mrs. J. O. Wynn, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Haverty, Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Arnold, Judge and Mrs. Shepard Bryan, Mrs. James E. Hickey, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. John R. Marsh, Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. King, Mr. and Mrs. Beverly M. DuBose, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Smith, Mr. and Mrs. James J. Ragan, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Weltner, Mr. and Mrs. Stephens Mitchell, Mrs. Oscar Palmour, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Beers, John Ashley Jones, James F. Alexander, Franklin M. Garrett, Judge and Mrs. Price Gilbert, Mrs. Bulow Campbell, Col. and Mrs. Clifford Early.

Serving in the dining room will be Mesdames Robert H. Davis, Eugene P. Black, William Bailey Lamar, William H. Kiser, Sr., John J. Eagan, and Charles R. Younts. Mrs. Lawrence Willet and Miss May Haverty will pour coffee. Misses Ella May Thornton and Mary Reynolds will register guests.

Mrs. Brantley, whose knowledge of Atlanta life has come from living it and whose memories, if they could be screened in detail, would be the Society's greatest legacy, recalls many delightful receptions of the past. One of these was her own debut party, given in the home of her parents on Peachtree Street where the Fox Theater now stands. She recalls that the receiving line was in the library and that the double parlors were used for dancing. She remembers well that she wore a pale blue satin dress, basque style, with panniers and a long train, and that she carried a bouquet of mixed flowers with a paper frill around them.

Atlanta society was small in those days, and all entertaining was done in private homes. The finer residences had been planned to care for all phases of family life, hospitable and otherwise, but Mrs. Brantley recalls one unexpected difficulty of major proportions. On New Year's in 1884, the thermometer dropped to a new low and the famous Atlanta gas froze. Hostesses of the day were forced to hastily assemble candles and kerosene lamps. But Mrs. Brantley adds, though the lights were not so bright, the good cheer of the season was in no degree dimmed.

Chautauqua Bid

The Midwest Chautauqua circuit, for which Jim Davis was once tent foreman, has invited the Warner Bros. actor to join the troupe this Summer in a series of plays. Davis, formerly of Dearborn, Mo. (population about 1,000) is Bette Davis' leading man in "Winter Meeting," and may accept the offer if screen commitments permit.

MISS ANNETTE O'CONNELL
Chief Blood Center Nurse.

Miss O'Connell In Red Cross Post

Appointment of Miss Annette O'Connell as Chief Nurse of the Atlanta Red Cross Blood Center, which opens Jan. 15, was announced Tuesday by Oby T. Brewer, Chapter Chairman.

A native of Sligo, Ireland, Miss O'Connell has served the Atlanta Chapter since March, 1945, when she was made Nurse Training Supervisor. Six months later she was named Director of the chapter's nursing activities, holding this position until her present appointment.

Six other Atlanta nurses will be full-time employees of the Center, Brewer said. They are, Mrs. Nell H. Snodgrass, Mrs. Juette C. Aduams, Mrs. Genevieve Blahnik, Miss Dorothea A. Bock, Mrs. Freda G. Mills and Mrs. Margaret R. Price.

VOICE OF OLD ST. NICK

WCON Slates Wealth Of Audible Yule Gifts

Ever watch a three-year-old on Christmas morning—how his eyes widen and his cheeks flush in excitement, and how he squeals with the joy of anticipation and discovery of all the new presents? How much Christmas means to him! Well—you're not too old, either, brother! When you turn your dial to 55 this morning and tomorrow you'll find yourself thrilled by the array of audible presents that WCON, the voice of ole St. Nick, has on the tree for you.

Christmas Eve highlights include Lionel Barrymore, Bing Crosby and President Truman.

Der Bingle Crosby will run the gamut of his songs that have come to mean Christmas to Mr. and Mrs. America at 10:30 p.m. today. He'll sing "Adeste Fideles" with the Charioteers," and "Silent Night" with the entire cast in chorus. Ole "Sketch" Henderson will join him in "The Christmas Song" and even the audience joins in "Jingle Bells." In addition, Bing will do "The Small One," his famous play concerning a small boy and his pet donkey at the first Christmas.

Lionel Barrymore will read for the twelfth consecutive Christmas, his immortal part of Scrooge in Dickens' "A Christmas Carol" at 8 p.m. over WCON, and at 5 p.m. President Truman lights the National Community Christmas Tree on the lawn of the White House. There'll be carols by a 50-voice glee club, the U. S. Marine Band and a Christmas message by the President at 55 on your dial.

At 11:30 p.m. WCON will rebroadcast, by special request, the story of the Nativity, "No Room at the Inn," the fourth in the popular Christmas religious series of "The Greatest Story Ever Told."

Another of "Tiny Tim's Christmas Parties" with carols by the famous choir of the Plymouth Church of the Pilgrims in Brooklyn, will be featured today also. Abbott and Costello, Paul Whiteman, and Gertrude Lawrence are other stars of today.

Brother Bill Hickok, WCON's local disc-jockey star, will vary his popular records with Christmas selections and will read Editor Francis P. Church's letter of 1897 to Virginia O'Hanlon telling about the real Santa Claus.

Only over WCON—The Constitution station—can you get these top-notch ABC shows and the best local talent.

Quick Quips

By JOE LAURIE, JR.

Arthur Godfrey, who no doubt has awakened you many a morning with his swell chit-chat on the radio, was asked what people did years ago without a radio? Arthur replied, "The same things they do today but WITHOUT MUSIC!"

Former Atlantan Named Director Of Berlin Prison

Maj. Maxwell Miller, former resident of Atlanta, Tuesday was named U. S. Director of Spandau Prison near Berlin, where the four occupation powers keep watch over Rudolph Hess and seven other major German war criminals.

Maj. Miller, 53, is an experienced penologist. He had worked in Federal prisons here and at Leavenworth, Kan., and at a prisoner of war camp at Fort Benjamin Harrison in Indiana.

He has been overseas for more than a year and was stationed in Italy until recently, when he was transferred to Spandau Prison. His wife, the former Miss Elizabeth Costley, of 614 McDonough Blvd., S. E., is with Maj. Miller in Berlin.

Facile Linguist

Florence Marly, beauteous Continental actress, who makes her American film debut opposite Ray Milland in Paramount's "The Sealed Verdict," speaks French, Czech, German and Spanish, and learned enough English in only a few months of meticulous study to begin a new movie career in Hollywood.

Why let it be a passing fancy?

EVERY day you see them, swinging smoothly by.

And every time you see them, like as not, the same thing happens.

You fancy yourself traveling in style that's unmistakable anywhere, and eye-catching wherever you go.

You picture the fun you could have behind this big bonnetful of Fireball power, eager for your treadle-foot's nudge, as avid as you are for high adventure.

You picture the glorious comfort there must be in soft, coil springs all around and a ride as level as an honest man's look.

You picture the peace of mind that could be yours in a carriage so big, so sure, so steady—a car whose very wheel-rims lend security and control as well as softness to your going.

Well sir!

Why let such pleasant fancies be passing fancies only?

Why know Buick only from the sidewalk, when every day that passes could be bringing you nearer to owning one?

First step is simply to make up your mind you're going to own one of these style stars. Next is to see your nearest Buick dealer.

He'll take your order, and get yours to you soon as he can.

ONLY BUICK HAS ALL THESE STAR FEATURES

AIRFOIL FENDERS — a sleek, car-length, tapering contour of distinctive beauty.
FIREBALL POWER — from valve-in-head straight-eight engines in two sizes.
ACCURITE CYLINDER BORING — smoothness from the start and an engine that "stays young."
SILENT ZONE BODY MOUNTINGS — scientifically placed for a firm and quiet ride.
FLITEWEIGHT PISTONS — for flashing action, swift response, reduced load on bearings.
BUICOIL SPRINGING — Buick-developed all-coil springing for perpetual smoothness and "panthergait" ride.
FULL-LENGTH TORQUE-TUBE DRIVE — protects moving parts, gives steadiness in traveling.
PERMI-FIRM STEERING — light but positive control with reduced need for adjustments.
SAFETY-RIDE RIMS — for peak tire mileage, better car control, freedom from heel-over on curves.
STEPON PARKING BRAKE — sets with a toe-touch, eliminates awkward hand setting.
DEEPFLEX SEAT CUSHIONS — giving luxury comfort in all models, three-person room on all seats.
CURL-AROUND BUMPERS — front and rear, originated by Buick to protect sheet metal. Built for bumper jack.
TEN SMART MODELS — in three series, featuring Body by Fisher.

White sidewall tires, as illustrated, available at extra cost.

I GATHER, SKIPPER, THAT YOU'VE TANGLED WITH THIS OVER-PERFUMED MAN TRAP BEFORE.
SHE'S THE DRAGON LADY, SPRAY. WE'VE, ER, MET, QUITE OFTEN.
...AND YOUR LEAD BROUGHT US TO THE RIGHT PLACE, TOO. THE GOOD OL' D.L. USED TO BE QUITE A HAND AT GUN-RUNNING. I WOULDN'T BE SURPRISED IF SHE KNEW ALL ABOUT HOW COME YOUR DAD WAS FRAMED INTO A COURT-MARTIAL.
COURT-MARTIAL? OF COURSE! YOU MUST MEAN MY OLD ASSOCIATE, COMMANDER O'HARA OF THE YANGTZE RIVER PATROL...TOO BAD HE WAS SO CLUMSY...
GEORGE WUNDER

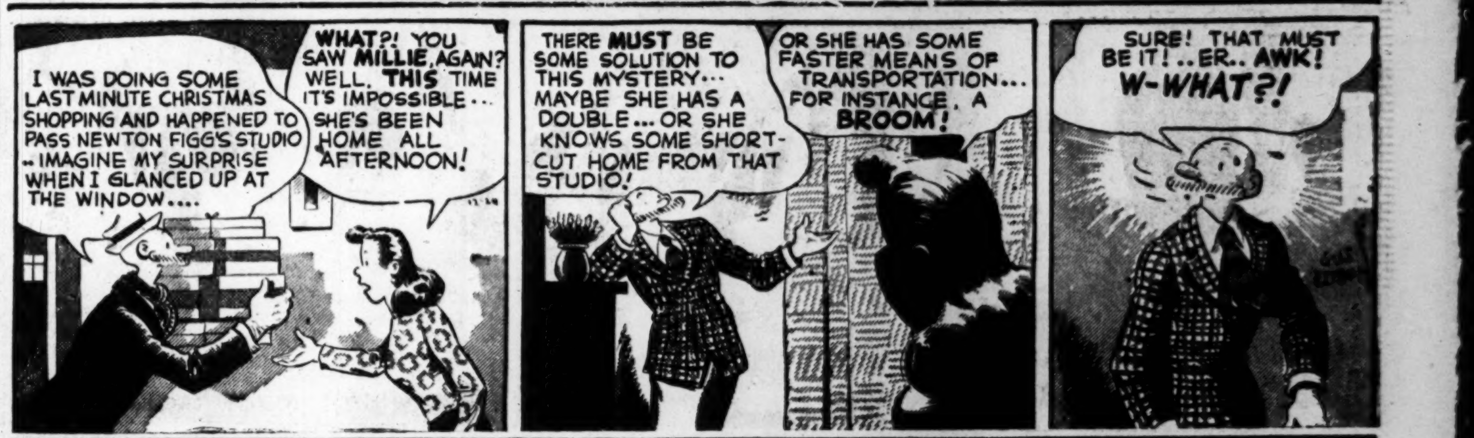
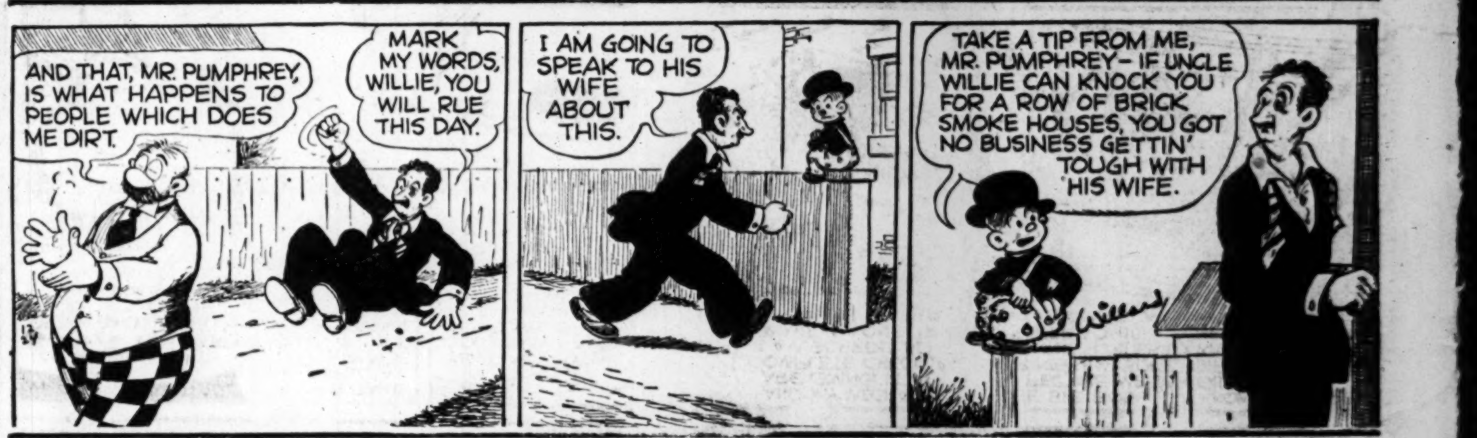
THE GUMPS



I WAS DOING SOME LAST MINUTE CHRISTMAS SHOPPING AND HAPPENED TO PASS NEWTON FIGG'S STUDIO - IMAGINE MY SURPRISE WHEN I GLANCED UP AT THE WINDOW....
WHAT?! YOU SAW MILLIE AGAIN? WELL, THIS TIME IT'S IMPOSSIBLE... SHE'S BEEN HOME ALL AFTERNOON!
THERE MUST BE SOME SOLUTION TO THIS MYSTERY... MAYBE SHE HAS A DOUBLE... OR SHE KNOWS SOME SHORT-CUT HOME FROM THAT STUDIO!
OR SHE HAS SOME FASTER MEANS OF TRANSPORTATION... FOR INSTANCE, A BROOM!
SURE! THAT MUST BE IT! ..ER.. AWK! W-WHAT?!

MOON MULLINS



AND THAT, MR. PUMPHREY, IS WHAT HAPPENS TO PEOPLE WHICH DOES ME DIRT.
MARK MY WORDS, WILLIE, YOU WILL RUE THIS DAY.
I AM GOING TO SPEAK TO HIS WIFE ABOUT THIS.
TAKE A TIP FROM ME, MR. PUMPHREY - IF UNCLE WILLIE CAN KNOCK YOU FOR A ROW OF BRICK SMOKE HOUSES, YOU GOT NO BUSINESS GETTIN' TOUGH WITH HIS WIFE.
